SAY SIGNALS AT WRECK WERE AT 'STOP'

By International News Service.

New Haven, Ct., Feb. 24.—For three hours today the new signal system on the New Haven Railroad between this city and Stamford was subjected to the most careful inquiry by Interstate Commerce Commission Inspector Hiram W. Belknap, who presided with Connecticut Public Utilities Commissioner Charles C. Elwell in investigating the Washington's Birthday wreck at Milford, in which ten were killed.

All the witnesses, signal experts engineers, dispatchers and trainmen were practically unanimous in endorsing the automatic signals in use and

New York, Feb. 24.—Life runs smooth again for Prince Alexandre Miskinoff and his mature bride of two years, the much-married Aimee Crocker Gourard Miskinoff.

Feeling themselves being sucked down in the eddy of a far-reaching scandal, the couple consented to arbitrate their differences.

When Supreme Justice Clark convenes his court tomorrow morning the titled ones' respective counsel will move the discontinuance of their clients' counter-suits for separation. Thus will end for the time being legal actions that for sensational interest bade fair never to be excelled in the history of New York divorce courts.

Announcement of the amicable settlement was made by Malcolm R. Lawrence, lawyer for the Princess, and John C. Oldmixon, attorney for

FIRE PANIC IN BIG STORE AT NEWBURYPORT

Newburyport, Feb. 24.—Miss Jessie E. Junkins, cashier of the Bon Marche, the largest department store in this city, narrowly escaped death today when flames burst from an electric motor under her desk, causing a fire which destroyed the store, with a loss of $50,000, according to the police estimate.

The young woman slammed shut the safe door and then fled for her life, together with 20 other employes and a number of women customers.

William McG. Fisher, a son of one of the proprietors, rescued the cash, but everything else in the store was lost, including the outer garments of the employes.

The Bon Marche occupied the basement and two floors of the building, which is known as the Postoffice Block, containing the local postoffice, and is owned by Joy, Langdon & Company of Boston.

The flames were prevented from spreading to other stores and the postoffice, which is located at the opposite end of the building. The police estimate the damage to the building at $10,000.

PRESIDENT FIRM ON U-BOATS

Tells Congress Leaders That the Demands Made Upon Germany by Us Will Not Be Compromised

Washington, Feb. 24.—Strong indications that Germany's latest plans for submarine operation will not be put into practice on March 1, as planned, but instead will be delayed, were obtained in German diplomatic circles here this afternoon. Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, refused either to deny or confirm the report. Secretary of State Lansing arranged a conference with President Wilson at the White House for late this afternoon, when it was understood, they were to canvass anew the international situation.

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, Feb. 24.—President Wilson today defied Congress to interfere in the international relations of the United States.

He declined to receive Representative Flood, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, who was commissioned by a number of his colleagues to tell the President that if he persisted in his demands that Germany refrain from attacking armed merchant vessels without warning Congress would pass a resolution demanding that passports be refused Americans who would not agree to remain off such vessels.

The President told Representative Flood over the telephone that he saw no reason to change his announced attitude, and that he must decline to further discuss the submarine question at this time.

ENGAGEMENTS CANCELLED.

Simultaneously with this announcement Secretary to the President Tumulty cancelled all of the President's engagements for today and tomorrow, with the exception of tomorrow's Cabinet meeting.

The President then left the White House and walked leisurely down town and looked over the exhibits of the "Safety First" Exposition in progress at the new National Museum under the auspices of the government departments.

The President has taken personal charge of the negotiations with Germany. Until definite settlement is reached or a break comes, officials said he would remain in closest touch with Secretary of State Lansing. It is understood to be the intention of the President to bring the negotiations to a head without any unnecessary delay.

36 Teuton Ships Are Seized by Portugal

Lisbon, Feb. 23, via Paris, Feb. 24.—The commander of the Naval Division here at 4 o'clock this afternoon, apparently of his own initiative, took forcible possession of thirty-six German and Austrian vessels lying in the Tagus River, hoisted the Portuguese colors on them and saluted them with a twenty-one-gun salvo from the Portuguese fleet.

It is said that the act of Captain Leotte Rego in seizing the German and Austrian ships interned at Lisbon was totally unexpected by the governing authorities, who were unaware of the step until it had been carried out. Captain Rego directed the operation from the destroyer Guadiana.

The Portuguese Congress, by resolutions on August 8, 1914, and on November 23 of the same year, decided that Portugal would co-operate with the allies whenever that step seemed necessary.

LATEST WAR BULLETINS

London, Feb. 24.—The German steamer Hochfeld, which was interned at Madeira early in the war, has escaped, according to a dispatch from Funchal. The Hochfeld is a steel steamer of 3,689 tons and was built in 1895. It fled from Madeira under cover of night.

Turin, Feb. 24.—On what it declares reliable information, the Secolo estimates the losses of Turkey in the war, exclusive of those at Erzerum, at 500,000 killed, wounded and missing.

Petrograd, Feb. 24.—Czar Nicholas, who opened the Duma on Tuesday, has again left for the front. The Czar is taking an important part in directing operations against the Austro-German forces.

GERMANS MAKE NEW GAINS IN TERRIFIC DRIVE ON VERDUN

London, Feb. 24.—The Germans are making further progress in their great drive on the French fortress of Verdun, as is evidenced by the official reports today from Paris and Berlin.

The French admit the loss of Brabant Sur Meuse, six miles north of Verdun, but the German losses in the terrific battles along a twenty-five-mile front at 50,000 men.

Berlin reports the capture of Haumont, Samogneux, Beaumont and Herbebois in addition to Brabant.

INCREASED SUCCESSES.

Today's official German statement today says:

"Western theatre of war: Our success on the east bank of the Meuse has been increased by further exploits. We have captured the villages of Brabant, Haumont, Samogneux. The entire wooded district to the northwest, north and northeast is in our possession, as well as Beaumont and Herbebois.

"South of Meis we surprised an advanced French post. The entire garrison of fifty was taken prisoners."

The French official communique says:

"In the Artois district there was a conflict with grenades to the east of Souchez.

"In the region to the north of Verdun the battle continued all night with the same intensity from the right bank of the Meuse as far as a point to the south of Ornes. Owing to the violence of the enemy's bombardment of the advanced position of Brabant sur Meuse, our troops evacuated that village under cover of the night protected by the flank fire from our positions on the left bank of the Meuse.

"An attack directed against Samogneux was repulsed. Another strong attack by a force consisting of at least a brigade lauched against the Bois des Caures recaptured from us a part of that wood of which we now actually hold the south point.

"All the offensives directed upon

250 CHILDREN IN BUILDING, FEAR SOME ARE LOST

A boiler in the basement of the Humphrey Grammar School, East Weymouth, exploded this afternoon while 250 children were in the building.

The explosion set fire to the building, which was quickly destroyed.

It was feared that many of the children had been unable to escape from the burning building, but it could not be determined whether any lives had been lost.

The children had but a few minutes to escape, as the building burst into flames immediately after the explosion and burned quickly.

Held was summoned from Braintre and nearby towns.

The building was of frame, three and one-half stories in height. It was built three years ago.

REPORT GERMANS LOSE 50,000 NEAR VERDUN

Beaumont, before which we have established ourselves, failed to dislodge us on the east front of Attack.

"Before Ornes we dominate the passage situated to the south of Herbebois.

"The movements of materials made necessary to avoid useless losses have been effected with perfect order, and the enemy, who advanced only with difficulty at the price of considerable sacrifices, was unable to break our front at a single point.

"There was a desultory and continuous bombardment in the region between Ornes and Fromereville.

"In Lorraine, the enemy gained a foothold at one of our advanced posts in the forest of Consenvoye, hence we immediately drove him.

"There were some partial engagements to the east of Beillon yesterday.

"In the course of the night one of our bombing squadrons threw forty-five projectiles, of which many were of large calibre on the station of Metz-Sablon and on the gas factory near which there was immediately observed thereafter a large fire."

It is noted that the reports are contradictory regarding Beaumont and Samogneux.

Facing the 2,000,000 men in the army of the German Crown Prince are more than 260,000 French soldiers under General Humbert. The defenders have the advantage of fortifications which have been strengthened for a year and the French artillery is held to be equal to that of the Germans.

There is bloody fighting over a front twenty-five miles long, from Malancourt, west of the Meuse River, to Etain in the northern section of the Woevre district. This line runs past Forges, Hill 304, Bois des Caures, Ornes, Malcourt and Fromezy, crossing the famous fighting sphere known as the Heights of the Meuse.

Malancourt is eight miles northwest of Verdun and Etain is ten miles northeast of the city.

The Germans may attempt to capture the Verdun fortress by storm, or they may try to surround it and then batter the garrison into submission with their great howitzers.

The fall of Verdun would compel the withdrawal of the French from the Woevre district and Lorraine, and seriously imperil the French position in upper Alsace. It would take important lines of communication out of the hands of the French and give the Germans a crossing of the Meuse River. The way to Rheims would be opened, and the Germans could begin another drive to Paris on the direct line from the east.

Verdun lies upon a chain of hills on the Meuse River, these heights forming a natural barrier against the German cannon.

The military expert of the Echoe de Paris, in writing of the operations around Verdun, voices a confident note, saying:

"Although the enemy is making a colossal effort which is absolutely without precedent so far as artillery activity is concerned, the fact that he is not advancing constitutes a brilliant success for France. The German Crown Prince has so far obtained not a single important advantage, nor has he ever been able to, for, if his offensive is not already broken, he has had ample time to realize that his troops are combatting opposition more terrible than ever dreamed of."

"Many military critics are still unable to believe the German commander capable of committing the supreme folly of trying to storm the fortress of Verdun, which, they point out, is now warming with legs of thousands of fresh troops, who have been rushed forward to re-enforce General Humbert's army.

"The fortress bristles with the most modern and destructive guns known to warfare, and is stocked with enormous supplies of provisions and ammunition. More than twenty forts surround the city, not counting the redoubts and other defensive works which have been built since the German invaded France.

"The military critic of the Paris Matin takes issue with those who hold that the German losses really mean a gigantic operation to turn the allies right flank. The Matin says:

"It is impossible that the enemy could seriously contemplate operations of such magnitude at this season of the year over Marshes Terrain in the Woevre district."

General Berthoud, writing in the Petit Journal says that, though the German Crown Prince has been checked and the outlook for the French is excellent, it is evident that Germany is going to fight for Verdun "to the last gun."

"Everything points that way," writes General Boutoud. "The German Crown Prince has thousands of reserves, an immense army of effectives, guns of all calibre and tremendous amounts of ammunition, all of which have not been massed without reason. We must conclude that the battle around Verdun will be both fierce and prolonged."

Joseph Reinach, the famous historian, comments upon the German losses. Writing in the Paris Figaro, M. Reinach quotes German prisoners as saying that certain German units were completely wiped out north of Verdun.

THE GREAT GERMAN OFFENSIVE ON VERDUN—The map shows the scene of yesterday's battle, where 280,000 Germans attacked the allies on a 25-mile front from Malancourt to Etain, and broke through the French lines for a distance of two miles in the Woevre district. Socialists for War Till Kaiser Is Triumphant

Berlin, Feb. 24, via The Hague—Philipp Scheidemann, leader of the Social Democratic party, and a prominent member of the Reichstag, declared today the Socialists are determined to carry on the war until Germany has won a victory.

"Reports concerning alleged ruptures in the Social Democratic party are absolutely without foundation," he said. "Further, there is no possibility of a split in the party. We adhere to the principle laid down in the historic meeting of the Reichstag on August 4, 1914, when we gave our support to all the measures of the Imperial government to repel the unprovoked attack of the Entente powers.

"Today we are just as determined on this stand as we ever were, and will maintain it until the war ends victoriously for Germany."

GERMANS SINK A PRIZE

By International News Service.

London, Feb. 24.—The British steamer Westburn, which was taken into Santa Cruz, Teneriffe, by a prize crew from the German commerce raider that captured the liner Appam, has been liquified outside that port by her Teuton captors, according to a dispatch received by Lloyds today.

The German officer in command of the Westburn was informed by the Spanish authorities in the Canary Islands that the ship would have to leave or be interned. He immediately ordered steam up, took the vessel outside of the Spanish waters and had his prize sunk. The German crew returned to port in small boats and will be interned until the end of the war.

The dramatic destruction of the Westburn is another thrilling chapter in the story of the mysterious commerce raider practically identified as the German ship Moewe. Despite the fact that British warships have been seeking the Moewe since the Appam was taken into an American port, the German raider is still pursuing its career of capture and destruction.

Thus far the raider has captured thirteen ships, having a total tonnage of 59,847. Three of these were sunk, only the Appam now being afloat.

The Westburn was in command of a German prize crew consisting of one officer and seven men. She had on board 206 prisoners taken from six British vessels and one Belgian vessel.

The Westburn left Liverpool on January 21 for Buenos Ayres, a voyage which would have taken her about thirty-five days, as she is not believed to be capable of making more than between six and seven knots. All of the ships previously reported sunk or captured by the Moewe met their fate in mid-Atlantic waters.

HITCH IN BRITISH CONSCRIPTION ACT

London, Feb. 24—The operation of the Compulsory Military Act is proving anything but smooth and the measure seems destined to make much trouble for the authorities. The tribunals sitting all over the country to hear claims for exemption are having a strenuous time with an enormous volume of applications. Very few actual exemptions have been granted, but in many cases the men have been put back for two to six months, which causes intense dissatisfaction.

WAR SUMMARY

The Germans yesterday won their most important success in France since the gas attack on Ypres. In fact, their gains yesterday may prove the most important they have made since their defeat in the battle of the Marne.

For they drove forward for an average of two miles, on a ten-mile front, north of the fortress of Verdun, and they are now close enough to that fortress so that not only their big howitzers, but their smaller cannon may be brought to bear upon it.

The French had established a strong field fortress north of Verdun, designed to break any attack from that quarter. The Germans captured this small fortress in their advance.

The entrenched line around Verdun now approaches within about two miles of the outer defences of the fortress proper, on the north.

Verdun roughly finds itself today in this situation. There are Germans eight to ten miles due west, five to six miles due northeast, two to three miles due north, eight to ten miles northeast, seven to eight miles due east, and seven to eight miles south. Only on that quarter of the compass between west and south are the lines to France open.

Before the war, in the territory still held by the French, there were two railroads running into Verdun. A two-mile advance by the Germans on the north would threaten or render useless the northern line of railroad, which runs to St. Menehould. On the south, if the Germans can cross the Meuse at St. Mihiel and advance two to three miles, their artillery will command the other line that runs to Bar le Duc.

Whether the Germans intend to attempt the actual reduction of the fortress will be more evident in a day or two. Could they carry out such a plan the advantage to them would be enormous.

Paris says the battle is increasing in intensity and now ranges over a twenty-five-mile front.

Other theatres of war were quiet yesterday. In the Caucasus, Russia reported no progress. Nothing from Mesopotamia. Nothing from Albania or the Austro-Italian front. The Austrian city of Trent, the Italian goal in one phase of their campaign, is twenty-one miles from the frontier by any practicable road. The Italians have now advanced six miles of that distance, in a campaign continuing since last May. They advanced the first four of those miles without meeting any opposition save skirmishes with Austrian outposts, and did that in the first week of the war.

Premier Asquith yesterday told the Commons that England will not "sheathe the sword" till Belgium and Serbia get back "all and more," till France is secured against aggression, till the rights of the small nations are secured, and till Prussia's military domination is destroyed.

DETECTIVE CASE IS MYSTERY

Maurice G. Walsh of Dorchester, the investigator for the Howard W. Morgan Detective Agency who was arrested in the vicinity of the former residence and now the offices of Cardinal O'Donnell on Granby street last Friday, was tried in the Roxbury court today on a charge of holding himself to be a private detective without having a license.

Walsh denied the charge and after the testimony, Judge Ahern continued the case until February 29.

Walsh testified the police and asked him if he was watching the Cardinal's former home.

"I told them I was not," he said.

But the real purpose of his long vigil in the Granby street section for the detective agency was not disclosed, remaining a mystery despite the efforts of the police to find out Walsh's business.

QUESTIONED BY POLICE.

Three automobile salesmen told the court they had seen Walsh on Commonwealth avenue and on Granby street from February 15 to February 18; that he seemed to be "watching for some one" and often "looked in the general direction of the Cardinal's former home."

Policeman Bell of the Back Bay station said Walsh had told him he was a private detective.

"But he refused to reveal to me who he was there," said Bell. "He told me I'd have to ask Mr. Morgan, his employer, about that."

Walsh said he was an "operator" and that he had been at work in the Granby street section "on business."

"I did not tell the police I was a private detective," he said. "I told them I was an operator."

Policeman Bells asked me if I knew there had been any prominent persons living in the vicinity of the place I might be shadowing, and I told him no. He then asked:

"Do you know the Cardinal lives out here?"

"I said I understood he had bought an estate in Brookline and was living there. He asked me if I was watching the Cardinal's home, and I told him I was not."

Howard M. Morgan said Walsh did "general work, shadowing, etc."

"He was an operator," said Morgan. "I sent him out to Commonwealth avenue on business for me. He was acting entirely for me. When I assigned him, I would have given him a letter to show that he was an operator, but I was ill and could not."

'BRANDEIS ASKED FOR JUSTICE'

By International News Service.

Washington, Feb. 24—The individual efforts of Louis D. Brandeis gave the Harriman interests overwhelming control of the Illinois Central Railroad, Wadhill Catchings, president of the Central Foundry Company, today told the Senate subcommittee investigating Brandeis' fitness for appointment to the Supreme Court.

Catchings told how he had been employed by the Harriman interests to obtain stockholders' proxies which would give them (the Harrimans) control of the stockholders' meeting over the Stuyvesant Fish interests. It was the hardest job he ever had, Catchings said, and he was forced to call in the aid of Brandeis.

Brandeis, however, refused to touch the matter, he declared until he had been "convinced of the justice of our case."

Mark Sullivan, editor of Collier's Weekly, preceded Catchings on the stand. He told of employing Brandeis in the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy. An effort by the opposition to show that Brandeis endeavored to conceal his employment by the magazine was overridden by Sullivan.

"It was known by every newspaper man in Washington," he declared.

Austen Fox, attorney for the organized opposition to Brandeis' confirmation, asked the committee to subpoena C. F. Kelly, a New York attorney, who would testify, Fox said, that Brandeis particularly requested that his employment by Collier's be concealed.

Henry T. Richardson of Brookline, Mass., an attorney, testified as to Mr. Brandeis' connection with the Gillette Safety Razor Company, in which it is alleged that Mr. Brandeis, after bringing suits alleging mismanagement, later deserted his original clients and aided the Gillette company against them.

Richardson testified that Mr. Brandeis, while acting as counsel for Joyce and Curran, was aiding Mr. Gillette to form a holding company for the control of which was to oust Joyce and Curran from the management.

TRADE TREATY WITH RUSSIA PROPOSED

By International News Service.

Washington, Feb. 24.—President Wilson's insistence that David R. Francis of St. Louis accept the ambassadorship to Russia, to succeed George T. Marye, it was learned today, was caused by his desire to open negotiations to establish a commercial treaty with Russia at once. The treaty of 1832 was abrogated during the Taft administration. President Wilson is understood to believe that Mr. Francis is exceptionally qualified for this work.

BRITISH STATESMEN TAKE PAY IN BONDS

London, Feb. 24.—In response to strong agitation by the newspapers urging the ministers to set the country an example of economy, preferably by accepting reductions in their salaries, it is announced that the ministers have agreed for the future to accept one-quarter of their salaries in the form of 5 per cent. exchequer bonds. It is considered probable that the whole body of civil servants will be invited to accept a portion of their salaries in a similar form of exchequer or war loan bonds.

The accident happened under the Fort Point channel in the new Dorchester tunnel.

Examination of the man's body showed that he had probably died of a broken neck. Dr. McGrath ordered its removal to the morgue.

Princess Secures a Divorce

Maid Told About Other Woman

PRINCESS NICHOLAS ENGALITCHEFF, who has won a divorce. Her husband's name was coupled with that of the beautiful Mrs. Jane Hathaway in the trial.

By International News Service.

New York, Feb. 24—The Princess Nicholas Engalitcheff has won her divorce decree. Supreme Court Justice Bijur decided in her favor.

The court stated in a brief opinion there was sufficient evidence to warrant finding against the Prince in testimony coupling his name with that of Mrs. Jane Hathaway.

A former maid employed by Mrs. Hathaway, a little, stated that she had often served wine to the Prince and Mrs. Hathaway in the latter's apartment at No. 260 West Fifty-fourth street, and had guarded the door against intruders while the Prince and his hostess chatted in an adjoining room.

The Princess was formerly Evelyn Purbridge, daughter of Charles Purbridge of Chicago. She and the Prince returned from Europe at the beginning of the war and engaged rooms at the Vanderbilt Hotel.

The Princess heard reports of a trip which the Prince took up the Hudson last Summer with the fair Mrs. Hathaway as companion. She brought an action for divorce and was surprised a few days later when Mrs. Hathaway's former maid walked into her apartment and told details of the Prince's visits to Mrs. Hathaway.

At the trial the Prince swore he was just a social visitor. He and Mrs. Hathaway had slipped wine together and talked about the weather and current topics. Mrs. Hathaway corroborated the Prince. Both of them denied that the Princess had distorted their relations and that the former maid was making false statements out of spite.

LINER CANOPIC HERE IN WAR COLOR

Painted a battleship gray to resemble a navy patrol ship, the White Star liner Canopic arrived in Boston today after a nerve-racking trip from Mediterranean ports, the Azores and Madeira.

The ship brought 1,462 passengers, of whom 1,340 were in the steerage. There were 1,021 Portuguese aboard, the largest number of that nationality ever to come to America on one ship.

Officers of the Canopic said the responsibility of bringing a big passenger ship across the Atlantic increases with every voyage. They said that where once they had only to avoid the submarines in the Mediterranean they now have to watch out for searaiders like the Moewe in the Atlantic.

The great strain on passengers and crew was apparent and the customary safety aboard ship on arrival was absent.

The officers said that in the Mediterranean a 4.7 gun was mounted for defence purposes. This gun, however, was taken off at Gibraltar.

On the eastward voyage an American woman left the ship when she was taken to Gibraltar aboard at Gibraltar. After a conference with the American consul she decided to complete her journey to Italy overland.

DUPED ON 'ANTIQUE' SHRINE

A round stone temple, purchased by Professor William Hewson Baltzell of Wellesley for $100,000 in the belief that it was an old copy of an ancient shrine to the Greek god Pallas, has been determined to be less than fifty years old and artificially aged with coffee.

This fact was made known when a decision was handed down by Judge Barber in the United States Court of Customs Appeals at New York, declaring that full duty on the temple must be paid by the importer.

Professor Baltzell purchased the temple from "art dealers" in Italy. When it arrived in Boston, customs officials appraised it as worth $2,000 and collected 45 per cent. ad valorem on that basis, in spite of the professor's protest that it was an antiquity and so entitled to come in free.

The professor then stored the shrine in his basement, where it still remains, and brought suit to recover the duty paid. The case was first tried here, then went to the Court of Customs Appeals.

Professor Paul W. Hoffman, who has a laboratory in the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, and does all the preserving and restoring for that institution, was one of the experts who were decieved as to the age of the temple.

TREATED WITH COFFEE.

Clarence L. Lersner, examiner of antiques at the port of New York, said that the temple belonged to the French Renaissance period, perhaps late in the fourteenth century. A. F. Nardini, an artist, thought the marble had been treated with coffee, alcohol and other things to make it appear old. The workmanship was said to be highly inferior, and much of it was said to have been done by machinery.

Coming to the age of Professor Baltzell's importation, Judge Barber gave it as the court's view that much of the government's testimony negatived the testimony of the "experts" relative to the antiquity of the temple. On this point, the decision said: "It was established that the [illegible] had been produced partly by machinery within less than fifty years and, in addition, had been deceptively treated with applications tending to produce what which had produced a stimulated appearance of antiquity evidently sufficient to mislead the importer's expert witnesses. In other words, methods had been deceitfully employed to make the marble appear to be older than it was. We take occasion to say here, however, that this is not imputed to the importer."

"NOT ARTISTIC."

In conclusion, Judge Barber said the government's evidence also tended, and the court thought did, establish that much of the alleged carving upon the parts composing the temple was "neither artistic nor skilful in design or proportion, and was not a work of sculptural art."

EXTORTION CHARGED IN LOANS

S. H. Ham of the Russell Sage Foundation, speaking today before the committee on Legal Affairs at the State House in behalf of a bill to limit the charges on small loans to 3 per cent. a year, declared that money-lending in Boston is "nothing more or less than licensed extortion."

He declared that the rates allowed in Massachusetts are higher than in any State in the Union.

Mr. Ham came to Boston to join with Assistant Corporation Counsel George A. Flynn, Representative Rowley of Brookline and Attorney Smith of the Legal Aid Society in the great fight against the alleged extortions and abuses of the small loan agencies.

A group of Boston moneylenders, supported by their attorneys, attended the committee hearing. They will present their opposition to the Rowley bill later.

Representative Rowley declared that the abuses of the system were so prevalent that Governor McCall felt it to be his duty to comment upon them in his inaugural message. The bill which seeks to relieve the situation, he said, was molded upon the sytem adopted by the Sage foundation.

"The fundamental trouble is the paper charge allowed on small loans," he said. "With all due respect for the supervisor of loans, I have no use for that sort of legislation that delegates to a department head the right to make rules and regulations of his own. My bill will eliminate the discretionary power which, whenever it has been granted, has been abused."

He cited as proof that the real evil lies in the paper charges the fact that 3,769 loans of $10 had been made with paper charges that were enormous.

"The paper charge is impossible of regulations," said Attorney Flynn. "All attempts to regulate it have failed also. The regulation talk of loans for four months, but there is not a moneylender in Boston who will make a loan of $10 for four months.

"They make them for one month with a paper charge and then renew this charge month after month. Before many months it amounts to a charge of over 100 per cent. in a year, the largest amount charged in the United States."

As a proof of this he cited to the committee that loan agents' notes had three offices so that they might make three $10 loans to secure the exorbitant paper charge.

BROTHER CUTT OFF IN ARTIST'S WILL

The will of Miss Mary Lizzie Macomber, an artist, of No. 4 Harcourt street, filed in the Suffolk Registry today, leaves her brother, Walter F. Macomber of Everett, a sum of money required by law because, as the will reads, as a child she learned her brother "was a person she must protect herself from and not a protector."

She left an estate consisting of about $25,000 personal property, dated February 4.

The brother is the only heir and has filed notice that he will contest the will.

The will reads: "November 22, 1911. As I am leaving for Chicago I write this while being hearty sane and not wishing my property to go at the law would have it, as I prefer it to go to those who have been my truest friends and greatest helpers.

"To my brother, Walter Frederick Macomber, I give the sum of money the law requires to make my will legal. I think it is one dollar, but it may be ten. This is because as a child I learned my brother was a person I must protect myself from and not a protector, and after that my aim has been to him out of my life. I wish him well and regret it must be as it is."

SETTLE LOAN CO.S SUIT AGAINST COBB

The $200,000 suit brought by the Collateral Loan Company against William Cobb, its former president, has been settled by agreement in the Suffolk Superior Civil Court. Cobb was charged with stealing $58,000 from the company, and the case was recently not prossed by District Attorney Pelletier. The entry has been made on the court docket at Cobb's request, for neither party, trustees to be discharged without costs.

The loan company sought to recover $85,000 with interest and the trustees named were Chief Inspector John H. McGarr, Captain Ainsley C. Armstrong of police headquarters, Louis Curtis and the American and State Street trust companies.

Girls' Ideals Low, Gertrude Atherton Says of Orpet Case

William H. Orpet, Wisconsin University student, on his way to the inquest on the death of Marian Lambert.

The tragic death of young Marian Frances Lambert by poison, in the outskirts of Chicago, continue to attract widespread interest and discussion. The plea of her religious adviser, William Orpet, who is accused of her murder, that "she is as much to blame as I," has evoked a wide variety of opinion from noted writers and moralists.

Today the Boston AMERICAN presents the views of Gertrude Atherton, the famous novelist.

By GERTRUDE ATHERTON.

A young girl was dead in the snow not many days ago, and the world has moralized over the fact ever since. For the last two weeks society has been wide awake to the vital importance of girls.

But how much have the girls themselves heeded these warnings? How truly have they faced themselves? How sincerely have they realized the big unalterable facts behind the spoken and written words?

The pitiful story back of Marian Lambert's death is daily repeated, sometimes without number. Youth, gaiety, love are the real masters of a girl; she listens only half-heartedly to a lot of moralizing; she senses, but does not care enough about it to really understand.

The tragedy of it all lies the utter tragedy of the modern girl's commonplaceness of the modern girl. When a girl has only common ideals, chance alone can save her from completely wrecking her life. A girl knows that, knows it instinctively in her heart. But along comes a man.

UNABLE TO RESIST.

"What do you care? You are young only once. Better come on and have a good time while you can enjoy it," he urges.

And the girl listens.

A girl has to be able to resist, because she glories in the idea of loving and giving much. Other girls "do things," and their standard too soon becomes her own.

I do not want to moralize. To me that is a perfect waste of time. My words to the careless, unconsidered girl are few. Certainly I do not mean to "advise," simply to point the truth of certain facts as I have seen life work them out irrevocably.

Commonness is the most deadly leveling voiced in any girl's life. A girl may be "different," her friends must be "different" for her absolute. The minute familiarity creeps into a girl's manners a subtle undermining force starts in her character building.

BEAUTY WILL FADE.

Then slowly but surely the flowerlike beauty of a girl will fade. She will lose her good looks. A curious youthful cynicism when a girl knows too much, and yet infinitely too little, will make her eyes a little too bright.

One day last Summer I had an opportunity of proving the truth of my contention.

I was sitting on Riverside Drive about 5 o'clock on a warm July day. The book I was reading soon proved much less interesting than the passers-by. I let it fall unheeded as I sat and watched my neighbors.

About 10 o'clock I saw a crowd of boys and girls, in their 'teens, saunter from the apartment houses that line the drive. So many came out about that time that I noticed them especially.

They sat on the benches together, those boys and girls, and wasted a whole wonderful morning talking about nothing at all. The boys hugged the girls, the girls giggled and pushed and teased in return.

FLIRTING IS DANGEROUS.

So does familiarity start its havoc. And because a girl "doesn't care," boys do not care, and the circle widens rapidly.

Boys and girls have too much idleness in their lives. They get so tired and cramped, living in a city's apartments, with nothing to do; they have to expend their excess energy some way, and so they take the nearest expedient at hand, and the most dangerous—Sex play.

It's all abnormal. Youth needs sports. Exercise in the open air will do more to get the ever-present idea of sex out of a girl's head than any other one thing I know.

I have personally been much interested in the mystery surrounding Marian Lambert's going. I am sure that Orpet walked away and left the girl dead in the snow, without calling help, does not prove his guilt in my eyes.

That is a man's first instinct. He wants to avoid a scene. He probably was too paralyzed with fright to think coherently, while a woman in like circumstances would have run for help.

REFUSE TO LET MAN ADOPT MULATTO GIRL

By International News Service.

Evansville, Ind., Feb. 24.—Clifford Yarborough, a wealthy grain broker of Purcell, Tenn., appeared before Judge Duncan C. Givens of the Circuit Court, here, and asked permission to adopt Eugenia Murray, seventeen, a mulatto. He confessed she was his own daughter. The girl is strikingly beautiful and could easily pass for white. Yarborough told the court he "merely wanted to right a wrong done many years ago."

The court refused to grant the petition, saying it to do so would be equivalent to sanctioning the marriage of whites and blacks.

The defendant has been happily married for three years and has two sons. He will contest this outrageous action to the end."

TRAP MAN ENTERING VAULT

John D. Hooley, who was arrested charged with stealing $191 from a vault of the George McQuesten Lumber Company at No. 27 Kilby street, pleaded guilty and was held in $1,000 for a hearing on February 11 when arraigned in the Municipal Court today.

Hooley is an electrician and was employed in the building where the larcenies are alleged to have occurred. The police claim that he opened the vault with keys he secured from a desk in the office. The alleged thefts cover a period of several months.

For three months, Patrolman Van Lanningham has spent the small hours of almost every night in a vault in the McQuesten company's office, waiting for the thief to appear. Early today, he claims, Hooley entered the office, secured from a desk the key to the money box, walked over to the vault and threw open the door.

Patrolman Van Lanningham grappled with him, there was a desperate struggle, and the officer finally used his night stick to quiet Hooley till Patrolman Carnes could hurry up from his post in the street outside.

BATTLE OF WITS.

A long battle of wits between the officers and the thief preceded the arrest today.

When the company reported the thefts, the officers asked how the money was kept.

They were told it was placed in a locked tin box, and this box was placed in the vault. The key of the box was locked in a small drawer in the treasurer's desk. The desk was locked, and the key of the desk was hidden in another drawer in the office.

Someone familiar with this procedure was stealing the money, for the locks were never tampered with.

First an electrical device was attached to the desk drawer, so that when it should be opened, a light would flash outside the window and warn the waiting officers.

CUT THE WIRES.

But the thief discovered the device and cut the wires.

Then the officers established a watch every week-end, when the thief had been accustomed to make his visits.

The visits on week-ends promptly ceased, and the thefts occurred on other days in the week.

Finally the nightly vigil in the vault was established. Van Lanningham left a candle in the vault with him. So long as it burned brightly he knew the coast was clear, all was right. When the candle flickered and seemed about to go out he would emerge for fresh air, leaving the vault as soon as possible.

Kahn, chairman. Although Mr. Gatti-Casazza's present contract has two more years to run, the decision to retain him in charge of the company for an additional period was made to set definitely at rest rumors concerning important changes which might be made in the management, and to put an end to personal efforts in favor of others who aspire to the position.

President Tells Congress He Will Not Yield in Demand on Germany

INSISTS ADMINISTRATION MUST HANDLE SUB MARINE ISSUES WITHOUT INTERFERENCE.

The German reply to Secretary Lansing's informal communication of a week ago, in which Germany was asked whether the new declaration that beginning March 1 all armed merchantmen will be sunk without warning, does not abridge the promises previously made by Germany to this government, will be communicated to Secretary Lansing today or tomorrow.

It may be made the medium of the President's demand for a speedy reply to the main points at issue, inasmuch as it is stating to be a question in turn as to just what this government considers defensive armament for merchant craft.

In replying to this query the President may, officials say, ask that Germany make prompt reply to the original question. This easily could be done, as the administration has refused to accept the promises made in the Lusitania case which were expected to entirely dispose of the submarine issue.

Meanwhile the action of the President in defying Congress to interefere was reflected by a noticeable slackening of the agitation in Congress for immediate legislation dealing with the situation. Representative Flood took steps to prevent any attempt to force The House foreign affairs Committee to report the resolution of Representative Jeff McLemore of Texas, which warns Americans not to take passage on armed belligerent ships.

AIDED BY SPEAKER CLARK.

In this action he was ably seconded by Speaker Clark and a number of the influential Democratic and Republican members, who hold that any action of any character at the present time must seriously embarrass the United States.

Flood was confident that he would be able to control his own committee, and this would preclude any action directly from the floor, inasmuch as unless the committee reported the resolution, thus making it privileged, action on it could not be forced in a shorter period of time than two weeks.

"All I can say is that we are no worse off today than we were yesterday," explained Representative Flood after talking with members of the committee. "We have assumed a position of watchful waiting and are all hopeful that nothing will take place in the House that will embarrass the administration."

"STEP TO PREVENT WAR."

Meanwhile, the advocates of immediate action under the leadership of Representative Webb of North Carolina were "counting noses" to find out what strength they could get for immediate action. They were trying earnestly to overcome the efforts of Flood and his lieutenants and to capture the committee. In explaining his position, Representative Webb said: "The object of the members of the House who are conducting this fight is to prevent war with Germany.

"Other people may be trying to precipitate a split in the Democratic party or in the majority of this body, but we believe that it is our duty to take steps to keep the United States out of war, regardless of party or anything else."

In the Senate, Chairman Stone of the Foreign Relations Committee professed to be confident that no effort would be made to pass any legislation through that body which would embarrass the President.

STONE FAVORS DELAY.

"Congress should not take any action that would embarrass the President and the State Department while diplomatic negotiations are in progress," declared Senator Stone, after numerous conferences with Senators and Representatives. "If Congress is to take any action, it should be delayed until all diplomatic efforts have been exhausted."

Senator Stone said he believed no action would be taken in either branch of Congress at this time.

It was understood at the Capitol that the President took the position that he executive branch of the government was responsible for the conduct of the nation's foreign relations, and that he proposed to shoulder that responsibility without paying any heed to what Congress might do.

The seeming hysteria which seized the House yesterday continued in a lesser degree today with excited conferences in progress all over the Capitol. Administration supporters, and even some of the leaders of the movement against the President, did their best to allay the fever of excitement.

After he returned to the White House from his visit to the "safety first" exhibit the President went through a mass of telegrams and letters that were sent him bearing on the situation. They were from all parts of the country, and for the most part he was urged to stand firm against any resolution to warn Americans off armed belligerent ships.

SETBACK FOR GORE.

Soon after the Senate met today, Senator Gore of Oklahoma sought to introduce resolutions warning Americans to keep off belligerent ships. Senator Brandegee of Connecticut objected to the resolution, and under the rules Senator Gore was unable to lay the matter before that body. He said he would make another attempt to press the resolution later.

"The ship of state is driving headlong upon the breakers," desired Senator Gore in a public statement accompanying his resolution. He asserted that to fail to prevent this nation "to drive headlong into a bloody whirlpool of war" would be a crime against civilization."

Senator Gore said that the President's wishes were entitled to the greatest respect, but that Congress is charged with the responsibility for peace or war and cannot disregard it."

REVOLUTION IN NE WFORM.

Senator Gore's resolution was in a new form. It was a concurrent resolution, which called simply for action by the House and Senate. It would not need the approval of the President. The resolution reads:

Whereas, a number of leading powers of the world are now engaged in a war of unexampled proportions, and

Whereas, the United States is happily at peace with all of the belligerent nations, and

Whereas, It equally the desire and the interest of the American people to remain at peace with all nations, and

Whereas, the President has recently afforded fresh and signal proofs of the superiority of diplomacy to butchery, as a method of settling international disputes, and

Whereas, the right of American citizens to travel on unarmed belligerent vessels has recently received renewed guarantees of respect and inviolability, and,

Whereas, the right of American citizens to travel on armed belligerent vessels rather than upon unarmed vessels is essential neither to their life, liberty, or safety, nor to the independence, dignity or security of the United States, and,

Whereas, Congress alone has been vested with the power to declare war, which involves the obligations to prevent war by all proper means consistent with the honor and vital interests of the nation, now therefore, be it

Resolved, the Senate, the House of Representatives concurring, that it is the sense of Congress, vested as it is with the sole power to declare war, that all persons owing allegiance to the United States should in behalf of their own safety and the vital interest of the United States, forbear to exercise the right to travel as passengers upon any armed vessel of any belligerent power, whether or not such vessel is armed for offensive purposes, and it is the further sense of the Congress that no passport should be issued or renewed by any person owing allegiance to the United States for purpose of travel upon any such armed vessel of a belligerent power.

STATEMENT BY GORE.

Senator Gore's statement said in part:

"Between an armed merchant ship and an unarmed merchant ship there is a fundamental difference of fact and character against which it is futile to close our eyes. We might as well shut our eyes at noontime and assert that it is midnight. You cannot alter a fact merely by ignoring it. I doubt if Germany will consent to vouchsafe immunity to armed merchant vessels. I do not believe that public opinion in the United States would justify a war with Germany on account of her refusal to grant safe conduct to such ships.

"It may be that American citizens, as a survival of the times when pirates and privateers infested the sea, have the technical right to travel on armed merchant ships.

"Out of respect for their safety, out of respect for the peace and welfare of a hundred million of their fellow citizens, they ought to forego the exercise of such hazardous right. The best peace insurance and the best preparedness against war which the United States can adopt for the present is to warn those citizens who are unwilling upon their own motion to forego the exercise of this right, to abstain from placing the nation in such serious peril. What Senator, what Congressman, would be willing for his own son or his own daughter to embark upon an armed merchantship of a belligerent?"

STONE BANGED TABLE; REFUSED TO FOLLOW WILSON'S PROGRAM

Washington, Feb. 24.

SENATOR STONE, chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, at Monday night's conference in the White House, it became known today, was greatly aroused by the President's declaration that he would sever diplomatic relations with the Teutonic allies if their submarines violated the right of Americans to travel on armed merchantmen.

The Senator banged his fist on the table and exclaimed:

"Mr. President, would you draw a shutter over my eyes and my intellect? You have no right to ask me to folllow such a course. It may mean war for my country. I must follow my conscience in this matter."

Beating the Railroads With A Garford Motor Truck

OWING to the freight congestion on eastern lines, New York is encountering many difficulties in getting goods quickly by rail.

Many precautions are taken—many wires pulled—to get shipments out of the yards and into the terminals.

In order to avoid any possibility of delay, William Green, a New York printer, 627 W. 43d Street, foreswore the railroads when he needed immediate delivery of a very heavy printing press from Shelton, Conn.,—70 miles distant from the metropolis.

Instead of following the customary course, he engaged a five-ton Garford with a heavy trailer to do the work.

The Garford and trailer left Shelton with the enormous load at 1:00 A. M. Sunday arriving at the Green plant on schedule at 10 o'clock the same morning.

This trip—over winter roads—was a test of strength, power and endurance such as seldom has been given to a motor vehicle of any size or type.

Garford dependability—the Garford's unfailing ability to get there and back—has a substantial money value to Garford owners.

And there is a Garford to fit any business—big or little—your business.

Our range of styles and sizes is absolutely complete. We can exactly fill any trucking requirement.

LINER JUNIATA HELD FAST ON SHOAL

The Merchants and Miners' liner Juniata, one of the oldest boats in that fleet, which, Boston bound, ran aground on the Middle Ground, between Martha's Vineyard and Woods Hole, yesterday, bids fair to be tied up for several days.

The ship was still stuck tight early today, and a strong tide was piling sand around her in such fashion that she was being literally cemented to the bar.

The coast guard cutter Acushnet tugged at her all night without releasing her, and the wrecking tug Mercury hurried from Boston to assist.

The Gay Head lifesavers went to her today and stood by to help. It was early decided that it would be necessary to lighter her cargo before she could be released. The cargo consists of greenstuffs, and is perishable, so it was feared it would be almost a total loss, owing to the delay in reaching a market.

The sea early today was smooth, with no wind. The spot where the vessel is aground is so exposed that any high wind might tear the vessel to pieces.

The vessel lies about four miles from Woods Hole and two miles from Martha's Vineyard.

IRISH EMIGRATION 10,395 FOR YEAR

London, Feb. 24—According to statistics just issued, emigration fell off during 1915, approximately half the number of the previous year. Only 2 per cent were of military age. The great majority were women and children.

HEALTH HINTS
Pains in Back.

There is nothing more effective for bringing soothing relief to those having backaches than Minard's liniment, a creamy liquid Dr. Minard prescribed many years ago. You will be surprised to see how quickly it will allay your pain, pleasant and economical it is to use. It is a dependable liniment, because it is an antiseptic of great merit and drives all pain away almost instantly.—Advertisement.

Shepards Plan to Adopt Two More Foundlings; One of Them to Be a Girl

New York, Feb. 24—That Finley Shepard, Jr., is now entertaining as his special guest a little boy—a foundling, such as he, himself, was not so long ago—today was admitted by the youngster's foster parents.

If he likes his new playmate, and his foster parents like the lad as well, this second foundling, it is said, will be adopted into the family. On his own part young Finley, it is said, has already become real chummy with his little guest.

What's more, it also became known today that the Shepards are now planning to adopt still a third child. The latter, it is understood, will be a girl.

It is known that Mrs. Shepard, who was Miss Helen Gould, found the new youngster through Dr. Henry L. Chapin of West Fifty-first street.

Dr. Chapin makes a practice of interesting his wealthy patients in little waifs he encounters in his hospital work. He takes the children to his own home, where trained nurses feed and pet the little invalids back to health, until they are fit candidates for prospective parents.

In the course of the last two years Dr. Chapin has found homes for forty or fifty children. About the Shepards' young guest, however, he refused to say anything.

The Shepards enjoy children, their friends say, and economic necessity will not thwart the plans they have made for a large family. They believe, too, it would be bad for little Finley to grow up as the only child in their home. Hence the plans to adopt two more little waifs.

Uncle Sam Takes 6 Years to Send Men Underwear

William P. Smith of Waltham, formerly a corporal in the Coast Guard Corps, is today propounding the question to his anti-preparedness friends:

If it takes six years to equip one soldier with four sets of underclothes in time of peace, how long would it take to equip an army with them and everything else in time of war? The reason is this:

Some six years ago, while in the service, Smith ordered four sets of heavy woolen underwear to be paid for out of the government allowances. The order was placed with the quartermaster, and the would-be purchaser told there would likely be a little delay.

There was. Time passed and Winter came, but not the underwear.

Finally Smith bought the much-needed apparel from other sources. The matter he later dismissed from his mind, and upon the expiration of his term of enlistment he left the army.

He subsequently learned the barber trade, and is now working in a Waltham shop. Yesterday he received a bundle which he did not expect. Opening it, he found four suits of underwear!

Potato Cards Limit Dresden Weekly Sales

Berlin (via London), Feb. 24.—Communities receiving butter through the so-called Central Purchasing Association—an association founded by the government and under its control—must, in accordance with the order of the imperial chancellor, introduce butter cards before March 5 to limit the supply per person to a maximum of a quarter of a pound metric weekly. Children under two years are not considered in this estimate and those between two and fourteen years will receive half the stated quantity.

At Dresden potato cards have been introduced, a maximum of seven pounds per capita being allowed weekly.

Fat cards may also be introduced with a maximum of 180 grams of butter and margarine together, or a quarter of a pound of all kinds of fat. Persons receiving butter by post from outside points must report the amount received and have their butter cards correspondingly cancelled.

Berlin is among the cities receiving butter through the Central Purchasing Association.

NIELSEN WINS IN LONG RACE TO BOSTON

Alice Nielsen will win her race against time between Boston and San Francisco with about four hours to spare.

A wire from her received at Tremont Temple this noon announced that she is on the train which reached the South station about 2.30.

Miss Nielsen sang Antonia in "Tles of Hoffmann" in San Francisco Friday night. She will sing at Tremont Temple in Boston tonight, just eighty hours later.

Miss Nielsen started from San Francisco Saturday morning and her train, if it let to schedule, was due in Boston yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Coming through the Rockies it began to lose time. It was three hours late at Denver. At Chicago it was two hours late. Storms, wrecks and other elements contributed to delay it, and Miss Nielsen saw the journey's end only by leeway whittd down to ten hours, then to eighthand then to five.

She expected to reach New York from the West in time to get the nightrain to Boston, arriving here at 7 o'clock this morning, but her train didn't get into New York until 1 thisnorning. Miss Nielsen accordingly went to her apartment in the top of the Metropolitan Opera House Builig in New York and spent the nighmaking the 10 o'clock from New Yorkday.

Shest twenty-four hours, but she will fi arrive in Boston several hours before the concert, and she will ahlish a world's record for singer San Francisco Friday night, Bostothe following Thursday night, and 20 miles travelling between.

MRS. DE ARMOND IS MARRIED TO WAITER

Butte, Mo., Feb. 24.—Mrs. Alice De Armond, sixty-one, widow of David A. De Armond, who represented the Sixth District of Missouri in the national House of Representatives many years, was married February 12 in San Antonio, Tex., to William W. Allen, formerly a waiter here. The news reached this city today. Mrs. De Armond was widely known for her social activities.

SEES PERIL TO LIVES IN WOOD ON COFFERDAM

Charges that the failure of the contractors to install steel sheet piling in the dry dock cofferdam in Boston harbor will endanger the lives of workmen later to be employed on the construction work, were made to the Governor's Council by Arthur N. Hiddell, speaking for the Boston Central Labor Union.

Mr. Huddell declared that while it was generally supposed that sheet piling would be used to make the cofferdam safe, the contractors are actually using a wood piling which does not go down to bed rock.

Rear Admiral F. R. Harris, U. S. N., chief of the Bureau of Yards and Docks, who was called in by thecouncil during last Fall as an expert in the dry dock situation, was quoted by Mr. Huddell as saying that if herere building the cofferdam he wouldn't think of using anything excep the steel sheet piling.

SAY LIVES ARE ENDANGERS.

"In view of the report of theport directors' own expert, we asmed that steel sheet piling would used in that cofferdam," declared Mr. Huddell.

"Now we discover that thplans have been changed. We wantto know why lives are to be endangered by that time fails. If he was ni, we want to know why a change's been made in the plan of the coffer."

The case of last Fall referito by Mr. Huddell was when Port Inector Joseph A. Conry urged the Gernor's Council not to award the contr de the existing specifications: Holbrook, Cabot & Rollins. Mr Conry then stated that a new contrachould be put out for public bid. t this he was opposed by the other st directors.

Mr. Conry joined with Mr. Addell in declaring that every precaution should be taken to safeguard the lives of workmen. Mr. Huddell explained that an unsafe cofferdam might rumble at any time and destroy the lives of the workmen engaged in building the dock.

WOOD PILING USED.

Wood piling has already been used on the easterly end of the new cofferdam, he said, and it seemed apparent that the contractors would continue to use wood throughout.

Chairman McSweeney of the Port Board admitted that the board has sufficient authority to compel the contractors to install steel sheet piling.

As a result of this protest it was agreed that the port directors and the representatives of organized labor would confer and report to the Council what arrangements can be made to safeguard the lives of the workmen.

Edna Daye Will Brave U-Boats to Get Fortune

NEW YORK GIRL INHERITS $2,000,000

New York, Feb. 24.—"What will I do with the money when I get it?"

That is all that is worrying Miss Edna Tahlas Daye, twenty-three and pretty, of No. 201 St. Nicholas avenue. She says she has inherited a legacy of more than $2,000,000.

Miss Daye recently received news of the death of an uncle in Germany, who owned what is supposed to be the finest estate in Wittenberg.

She is preparing to sail as soon as she obtains her passport. She is not afraid of the proposed submarine edict, and believes she will not have any difficulty in reaching her destination.

"Submarines are the least of my trouble," said Miss Daye. "My chief worry is what I am going to do with the estate. If I fail to get the property it will not be for want of asserting my rights to the German authorities, who have refused me all information regarding the estate."

"Are you going to marry a foreign nobleman?" Miss Daye was asked.

"I positively say no!" she quickly answered. "A big, strong American man is good enough for me. These foreign princes are all right before marriage—but after. Then there's a different story. No, indeed; none of them will get my money. I'll not make my home in Germany. America's good enough for me."

MRS. ARCHBOLD BITTEN BY SNAKE

By International News Service.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 24.—Mrs. John F. Archbold, daughter-in-law of John D. Archbold, owes her life to a pair of heavy boots. She was bitten by a rattlesnake while hunting on the Archbold estate, near Thomasville, Ga.

Physicians, who were hurriedly summoned, say that her condition is not serious and that she will recover. The thick hunting boots she wore at the time broke the force of the snake's blow and the wound was merely superficial.

Mrs. Archbold killed the snake with a rifle shot. Then she sought other members of the hunting party and was assisted to her home.

JAPAN ANXIOUS ABOUT ALIEN LAND LAW

Washington, Feb. 24.—Viscount Chinda, Japanese Ambassador, cabled at the State Department in an effort to speed up a final settlement of his government's controversy with the United States over the California alien land law.

Japan is extremely anxious that the United states take some action on its demand that the California law be repealed. The controversy has hung fire for two years.

A new counsellor to the Embassy is on his way here from Tokio. It is reported that he is bringing fresh instructions from his government.

SECOND PRISONER HAS WHITE RATS

The fad of having white rats for pets is on its increase in Boston, according to Captain Sullivan of the City Hall station, who for the second time in four days has had a prisoner with two of the animals in his possession. The new prisoner is George R. Boyd, colored, of Rockland street, who was arrested on an intoxication charge. Boyd carried the rats in a pasteboard box.

PRINCE MISKINOFF SETTLES SUITS; MAY SAIL TO BATTLE

...At the same time the Prince announced that he would deny himself the pleasure of seeing Yvonne, probably for a long time. ...I will keep on loving Yvonne, ...I know she loves me, but I ...Yvonne, accordingly, ...ishing for a time.

SETTLED INFANT STORY.

...Prince Miskinoff made the announcement that he would not be leaving his wife's counsel, Yvonne, assistant counsel, ...ishing for a time.

In the settlement announcement the lawyers covered every point except the disposition of the pretty, ...ishabby-kid. Both the Princess Yvonne, who is in many respects the central figure of the remarkable ...ment, and Prince Miskinoff, with only to know about the baby. If I can be convinced on the point I am willing to discontinue my suit."

The Prince was then told that Mrs. Gouraud had adopted a baby some months ago from a foundling asylum. This baby is a girl and bears the name of Vera. Vera is now less than a year old. She was less than two months old when Mrs. Gouraud adopted her.

CHILD A MYSTERY.

The paternity of this child bids fair to remain a complete mystery. When he had heard this testimony the Prince decided that he was in error when he declared his wife told him she had given birth to the child.

Both lawyers declared that the history of this child probably will never be known to the public. The baby was at the Hotel Endicott and later at the Netherlands where the Prince and Yvonne are living. It is being cared for now in a secret place. It will be carefully reared and educated by Mrs. Gouraud. This assurance was given by Mr. Lawrence.

Whether the testimony of Dr. Foster will be made a part of the court record rests with Justice Clark. It was officially announced that neither the Prince nor Mrs. Gouraud contemplates any further action at the present time.

WILL BECOME SOLDIER.

The case came to a deadlock at the conclusion of Miskinoff's testimony. After the usual motion to dismiss Justice Clark conferred with Mr. Oldrich and Mr. Lawrence. Then it was decided to take the Prince, Mrs. Miskinoff and Dr. Foster to Mr. Lawrence's office for interrogation.

This was after the court had offered to send the case to a referee.

"I wanted madame and the Prince to shake hands and so their respective ways," said Oldrich. "But she said she would leave the matter in the hands of her lawyers."

The Prince and Princess sat near each other in the law office. It could not be learned whether they addressed each other. Despite the Prince's assertion that he had decided to become a soldier it is believed there is more than an even chance that he and his wife will become reconciled.

In that event the Czar will lose a daughter, however.

Yvonne was the cause of most of the trouble between the Prince and the Princess, according to the testimony, for, according to the Princess, the Prince, after he first began to know Yvonne, transferred his affections from his wife to her adopted daughter.

WROTE YVONNE NOTES.

Much of the examination was taken up by the Prince in trying to show that he had no real love for Yvonne—no more than a husband should have for his wife's adopted daughter.

Through the interpreter the Prince declared that at the McAlpin Hotel he did his best to make Yvonne keep a proper distance. He said also that they had a suite of three connecting rooms. First came his room, then the "Madame's," and last Yvonne's room.

"I did not like the idea of Yvonne listening to all that we were talking about after retiring for the night," said the Prince, "and I urged Madame to engage an additional room between Yvonne's and ours so that there would be no eavesdropping. But she did not do so."

The Prince admitted that he had frequently written affectionate notes to Yvonne, but only such notes as a dutiful husband would have written to a daughter.

"Did you ever see Yvonne in her nightgown, listening to you and Madame?" asked Mr. Lawrence.

"No, but she used to slip letters under the door. Fortunately the Madame did not see them."

"When was it you told Yvonne that you could not marry her because you were already married to her mother?"

"I told her that all the time except at one time when I thought it had been arranged to get a divorce on November 6. I told her that I would marry her because her mother preferred to have me do so."

"Were any divorce proceedings ever begun by the Madame?"

"I don't know. I was to leave it to the Madame. She was to get the divorce so I could marry Yvonne."

"When did you first begin to love Yvonne as a flame?"

"Not until after I had been in Europe about four months. Then I began to realize that I loved her as a future husband should."

"Did Yvonne love you?"

"I don't know; that is for her to say."

"Did you ever really love her? You frequently wrote that you liked her."

"In French the word 'to like' is the same for love as like. I never disliked her. I never detested her. I don't dislike her now."

"The rash on her face had for three weeks. Then I got a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment and the eruption began to heal and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Ointment she was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Watson Rains, Centerville, N. C., Oct. 5, 1915.

Grippe and Pneumonia Caused by Mouth Breathing

If nature meant man to breathe through the mouth, cases of Grippe, Pneumonia, Catarrh and Throat and Lung affections would be few and far between. Nature intended man to breathe through the nose. Mouth breathing exhausts the moisture in which bacteria breed and causes coughs, colds, sore throat and Grippe often ends in Pneumonia, Consumption or Catarrh. To avoid contracting colds and colds which may lead to serious results, breathe through the nose, wash with Hyomei, use Hyomei, which is the fresh air as much as possible, sleep with mouth closed and keep comfortably warm and dry. Hyomei is a pleasant, healing, germ-killing vapor which, when breathed for a few minutes daily a little outdoors or in the house, soothes irritated membranes, forms a protective prescription and will knock out the worst cold in a few hours. A few minutes taken in the morning and evening will prevent the cold becoming Grippe, pneumonia or something worse. Hyomei, the best druggists have these Outdoor Pockets and sell them, etc. Our positive guarantee that they will break up a cold and stop a cough or money back. Be sure to insist on Outdoor Inhaler Outfit and take nothing in their place. They are easy and convenient to take, contain no cold-forming drugs and, unlike other inhalers, much drugs and cough remedies are ineffective to cure your cold or sore throat. Advertisement.

FOUND SIGNALS AT WRECK SET AT 'STOP'

all agreed that when they occasionally failed through an electrical defect, it was always a "safe failure" and the signal boards fell to a danger indication.

The New Haven road's high officials co-operated in every way and arranged to have the witnesses in readiness for instant call.

Aside from carefully considering the matter of signals which appear to have been working properly, and to have been set against dead Engineer William R. Curtis' train No. 5, Inspector Belnap sought vainly to learn if Harry Sweeney, the dead employee, lost unidentified at the Milford morgue, was riding in Curtis' locomotive cab or was stealing a ride on another part of the train.

AIR HOSE MYSTERY.

The leaky air hose on train 79, which stopped that train two minutes before it was rammed by No. 5, figured prominently at the forenoon session. The investigators were curious to learn how it became so gashed that it barely hung together. Though it was not definitely conceded that the air hose, which was lying on the ground near the engine when the rear of the train was struck was probably run over by some of the wreckage.

One trainman, who tagged the air hose at the wreck, was so positive in his identification that the investigators were finally convinced.

When the hearing opened Federal Inspector Belnap and Commissioner Elwell presided, with the Federal Commission Signal Engineer George O. Ellis sitting where he might easily be consulted. Inspectors J. S. Hawley, J. P. McArdle of Worcester and F. A. Howard of Springfield were busy with large masses of data, diagrams and rule books.

Engineer Trumbull of the State Utilities Commission and Vice-President A. R. Whaley of the New Haven road were in the room, also Attorney Joseph C. Sweeney, representing the railroad company. F. S. Evans, a representative of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, was also among the spectators, who numbered less than a score.

PLANS SHOWN.

General Manager Bardo of the New Haven appeared just as the hearing began with plans of the tracks and signals at Indian River, showing the location of the cars immediately after the wreck.

Paul Sterling, division engineer for the New Haven road, the first witness called, expalined the diagram of the wreck scene which was offered, saying there was a descending grade of thirty feet to the mile in the vicinity of the wreck. Traffic on tracks 1 and 2 is in a westerly direction and on tracks 3 and 4 in an easterly direction, he said.

Mr. Sterling said the signals achowed "Cautionary" and "Stop" when he got to the wreck in the afternoon and after the dead and injured were removed.

C. B. Melick, operator of Tower No. 79 at Woodmont, the second witness, said that the weather was clear. Train No. 79 passed his tower at 11:19, running thirty-five miles an hour on track 2. Train extra 1901, freight, passed the Woodmont tower at 11:23 on track No. 1. The extra was moving fifteen to eighteen miles an hour, drawn by a steam locomotive. He did not notice if much smoke was emitted. Train No. 5, passed the tower at 11:32 on track 2, running thirty-five miles an hour. He did not notice the signals when any of the trains passed.

NOTICED SIGNALS.

About fifteen minutes later he noticed the signals west of the tower on tracks 1 and 2 were at "stop," the normal position of the block east of signal No. 6525-6521, was occupied by trains.

Witness said he did not know of the accident though he knew something had happened when the trains in the tower had been grounded. The signals were operating, and controlled from the tower which operated the signals for the crossover.

The signal maintainer, who was in the tower walked down the tracks to find out why the signals showed danger. When trains were late they frequently passed at 2 or 3 minute intervals. Train 68 passed the station at 10:06, way freight extra at 10:29 and nothing else on track 2 for fifty minutes, until No. 79 went by.

The last train past the tower on track No. 1 ahead of the extra freight was at 11:11 when a "Symbol extra, W. H. 1" passed. No additional trains in the cab of No. 5 was seen by him.

O. F. Dorwood, signal supervisor of the New York division testified that the method of signalling between New York and New Haven was "Automatic block."

SIGNALS AT STOP.

He arrived at the wreck at 3 p. m. and subsequently observed all signals to a "stop" position. Inspector Black and others under Mr. Dorwood reported to him that they found the signal in a "Stop position." Witness placed guards to keep the signal boxes locked. Mr. Dorwood said a fuse to signal 6523, which blew out January 24 had been replaced. "The signals have given very good service since they were installed in 1914," he said.

A cautionary signal meant the engineer must have his train under control to stop at the next home signal. The signals at Indian river were installed about two years ago.

After reading New Haven rule No. 59, relative to a yellow caution signal, Mr. Dorwood admitted there was nothing in the rule requiring an engineer to reduce speed at a caution signal, but said that in about 200 observations and tests in the last three years every engineer had shut off steam and "pinched down a bit" after getting to a cautionary signal, always ready to stop at a home signal.

SAFE FAILURES.

All failures of the system have been "safe failures," as the signal arms always drop to "danger" whenever anything happens to them. Witness knew nothing about the extra man who was reported to have been riding in the engine cab of train No. 5.

To questions of Mr. Bardo, Mr. Dorwood said the language of rule 501 was the standard phraseology recommended by the American Railways Association.

John C. O'Brien, Shore line division signal supervisor, went to the wreck Tuesday noon on a special train and saw the signals in a horizontal position.

O'Brien knew nothing about mysterious extra man in the cab w Engineer Curtis of train No. 5. O'B had reported to him two failure signals in his division when "the nals stuck clear."

The Minute Man

The far-famed Minute Man of '76 was a strong, sturdy patriot whose motto was "readiness." He won his battles just as the up-to-the-minute-man of today will win his.

To be always ready, to be sure of winning, one must have a strong, healthy body and a clear, clean mind. These depend largely upon correct eating.

Perfect health means wise eating and wise eating means lots of bread. Tasty toasts, buttered cuts or light sandwiches hit the right spot for health, and do not annoy the pocketbook like heavy, high-priced foods.

Eat lots of bread, pure bread—the kind that leading New England bakers make deliciously light and palatable and "ready on the minute" by leavening with

LABOR PEACE AIDS DEFENCE PLANS, DECLARES MISS HENRY

By CONSTANCE WILLIAMS.

"Whatever will strengthen the labor movement, or the woman movement, goes to strengthen the world forces of peace. Let us hold fast to that. And, conversely, whatever economic or ethical changes will help to insure a permanent basis for world peace, will grant to both the labor movement and the woman movement enlarged opportunity to come into their own.

"That is my idea of the right sort of preparedness."

The speaker was Miss Alice Henry of Chicago, National Trade Union lecturer and author of "The Trade-Union Woman," who is visiting Miss Alice Stone Blackwell at Dorchester.

Miss Henry is an Australian by birth and early devoted her life to the study of social and economic affairs. In her own country she had the opportunity of observing various social reforms and gained many valuable ideas, which she set forth in her book, published two months ago.

"A society, which, in the interests of the privileged classes, has permitted the exploitation of the worker, must bear its share in preventing the consequences of the evil," declared Miss Henry.

"We need an adjustment of industrial conditions for military preparedness. If we are to prepare for peace, as the President says, why not begin by righting some of the working conditions in this country which cause strikes and other labor unrest? Let us have peace of mind and rest of body for the overworked and underpaid women, and let our children have the chance to enjoy their childhood as God meant them to.

"Oh, it is the little children that touch my heart," cried Miss Henry. "What about the honor of a nation which allow its babes to work in sweat shops and factories? There is so much to be done to prepare the people of the United States for peace! It is my dearest wish to see the women and children given the chances to which they are entitled in this country."

Miss Henry is very impressive when she speaks of the trade union principles. She is tall and has snowy white hair and clear eyes.

She considers that the recent garment workers' strike in Boston was a wonderful triumph for working women. She was an interested listener to the hearing of the grievances of the garment workers and the replies of the employers.

"There are always to be found the honorable business men," she said, "those who are willing to do the right thing by their help, and the influence of these upon the bad employers is to the working women's advantage.

"The minimum wage law started in Australia from just such conditions as you have in the Boston shops. Garment workers were underpaid and worked harder than men for less money and a good deal less consideration. It was first applied to women, but before the first minimum wage law got through the Legislature, it was extended to men.

MISS ALICE HENRY of Chicago, National Trade Union lecturer and author, who is the guest of Miss Alice Stone Blackwell in Boston.

HARVARD BOYS SIGN BRANDEIS PETITION

Although President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard set his name at the head of a list of those who opposed the confirmation of Louis D. Brandeis to the Supreme Bench, Harvard undergraduates refuse to follow his lead.

Several hundred students have signed a petition favoring the confirmation of Brandeis, and on this the Crimson today editorially comments:

"No better proof of the really strong undergraduate interest in matters which extend beyond the four walls of the university could be given than the petition now being circulated in favor of the confirmation of the appointment of Louis D. Brandeis, LL.B. '77, to the Supreme Court of the United States.

"From all outward signs it has seemed during the present year that such interest was at a low ebb.

"The significant feature of this petition in favor of Mr. Brandeis is the spontaneity of its origin: it was not started by any body of organization, but by a group of undergraduates as a result of their own discussion of the appointment.

"The United States Senate will hardly modify its action radically as a result of this petition, but that is not a reason why students should hesitate to voice their opinions on this and other subjects. Prominent graduates of the university have expressed themselves for and against the selection of Mr. Brandeis; it is fitting that undergraduates and professional students should do likewise.

"Men who sign the petition, however, have some reason for doing so. That reason may be a desire to support the administration; it may be a belief in the ideals and sympathy and general qualifications of Mr. Brandeis. If the signers use such discretion the idea is an excellent one."

The petition is addressed to the Senate sub-Committee on Judiciary and urges favorable action on the nomination.

Several hundred signatures of Harvard students were promptly affixed to the petition posted at the entrance to Memorial Hall. The petition reads as follows:

To United States Senator Thomas J. Walsh, chairman of the Senate Sub-Committee: We, the undersigned members of Harvard University, hereby strongly urge upon your committee to report favorably on the nomination of Louis D. Brandeis, '77 Law, as an associate justice of the Supreme Court.

LOOT CHURCH SAFE IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Feb. 24. — Thieves forced entrance to the chapel of St. Patrick's Catholic Church early today, blew open a safe in the wall, stole several sacred vessels, cash and two watches belonging to the sexton, valued at about $1,000, and escaped without leaving any other clews than finger prints.

POLISH FUND GETS MORE THAN $6,000

Nearly 15,000 persons visited the Polish Relief Fund Bazar in Mechanics Building the finishing day of its three-days' session.

The majority of articles offered for sale were disposed of, and it was estimated by Mrs. Edgar M. Young, the chairman, that after the remainder had been sold at auction at the conclusion, a net sum between $6,000 and $7,000 would be realized for the suffering country.

Large Users Prefer WHITE TRUCKS

THE great oil companies, well known packers and brewers, big department stores, national public service corporations, government and municipal departments, large transportation companies — whose experience covers a wide range of trucking service, prefer White Trucks.

They know truck values better than anyone else and they buy Whites in larger quantities and at a higher purchase price than other trucks command.

The White today is the dominant truck of America. In annual sales it outnumbers any other make two to one.

The small truck user, who has never had experience with a high grade truck, and can form no conclusions of his own, can very profitably heed the example of well known concerns who know what a given truck is worth and buy Whites in preference to any cheaper make.

ACCENT BARS HARVARD MAN AT YALE

New Haven, Feb. 24.—According to Professor John Wesley Wetzel, who has charge of public speaking at Yale, an eminent Harvard professor because of his Harvard accent has become persona non grata at Yale and will no longer be asked to preach to Yale students in the college chapel. For the last five or six years he has been an occasional preacher there.

Professor Wetzel said the preacher had become so imbued with the Harvard and Boston atmosphere that recently his accent made him the subject of comment by Yale undergraduates. It was contended that as his ideas grew broader, the resulting power of the voice grew weaker.

Professor Wetzel said he took the matter up with Anson Phelps Stokes, secretary of the corporation, who said the engagement of the noted Harvard professor had been cancelled because his accent was growing "too Yalish."

NOT A PARTICLE OF DANDRUFF OR A FALLING HAIR

Save your hair! Double its beauty in just a few moments.

25-cent "Danderine" makes hair thick, glossy, wavy and beautiful.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates, and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.—Advertisement.

TRY THIS FOR A COLD—IT'S FINE!

"Pape's Cold Compound" ends severe colds or grippe in few hours.

You can end grippe and break up a severe cold either in head, chest, body or limbs by taking a dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" every two hours until three doses are taken.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages in the head, stops nasty discharge or nose running, relieves sick headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffling. Ease your throbbing head—nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only 25 cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Be sure you get the genuine.—Advertisement.

TODAY'S AID TO BEAUTY

An especially fine shampoo for this weather can be easily made at trifling expense by simply dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox in a cup of hot water. Pour slowly on scalp and massage briskly. This creates a soothing, cooling lather that dissolves and removes all dandruff, excess oil and dirt. Rinsing leaves the scalp spotlessly clean, soft and pliant, while the hair takes on a glossy richness of natural color, also a fluffiness which makes it seem very much heavier than it is. After a canthrox shampoo arranging the hair is a pleasure.—Advertisement.

PANAMA BOARD SENDS STATE TAXI BILLS

Bills for broken champagne glasses, valet service, roses, violets and numerous safe charges of the Board of Panama-Pacific Managers for Massachusetts have been held up by State Auditor Alonzo B. Cook.

The State Auditor has called for a "satisfactory explanation" of the bills. Unless the explanation is made at once Mr. Cook threatens to lay the bills before Governor McCall and the executive Council.

One of the items is a two-years' subscription to Practical Politics, the bill being made out personally to Peter H. Corr, chairman of the commission.

State Auditor Cook has held up two vouchers, dated January 28 and February 1, totalling $3,323.91. The vouchers are signed by Commissioners Corr, Alexander Sedgwick and George F. Meiz.

The names of the two women commissioners, Mrs. Charles S. Hamlin and Mrs. John Hays Hammond, do not appear on any of the bills held up by the State Auditor.

LARGE TAXI BILL.

One of the bills charged to the State is that of Wheeler & Hayward, San Francisco caterers. Three of the items on this bill are as follows:

50 champagne glasses	$1.50
50 liquor glasses	1.40
2 broken champagne glasses	.50

The bill of Practical Politics, made out to Chairman Corr, is for $10. The bill is dated September 1, 1915.

A bill of $284.28 is charged to the State by the Taxicab Service Company of California. One of the items, dated July 21, 1915, of $193.50, is for auto use by the members of the Massachusetts delegation to the exposition. The bill bears the name of Sergeant-at-Arms Thomas F. Pedrick, who was official custodian of the party, which included Governor Walsh. Whether the Governor was on this auto ride is not stated.

Josephs, a San Francisco florist, sent a bill of $22.75 for roses and violets. This bill is "O. K'd" by L. L. McCarthy, who succeeded Charles O. Power as secretary of the board.

Another bill of $42 is charged by a movie operator who took moving pictures of the exhibits.

The Cliff Hotel rendered a bill of $16.10 for hotel expenses. Chairman Corr signed the bill. One of the items is "cafe charges, $03.50."

CHARGED FOR VALETS.

Alexander Sedgwick's bill is $141.20, principally for hotel and traveling expenses. The bill is minute in details. Taxi rides and valet service are charged.

State Auditor Cook said that many of the items are unquestioned. One of these is Mrs. Margaret B. Purdy's bill of $642.50. Mrs. Purdy, formerly of the Hotel Brunswick, was matron at the Massachusetts Building. The bill includes carefares and modest luncheons.

The State appropriated $765,000 for its expenses at the exposition. The bills up to January 1 totalled $194,085.94. As the furnishings of the building are being sold Mr. Cook says there will be sufficient money to pay all the bills without an additional appropriation.

MORE PAY SETTLES TAUNTON STRIKE

Taunton, Feb. 24.—The strike at the Taunton-New Bedford Copper Works was settled today, between 400 and 500 men returning to work. One hundred and fifty will get $2 for a ten-hour day; and some of the others will get a ten per cent. increase. The plant is making munitions.

Last night the police were called to the plant, remaining on guard all night, but there was no trouble.

At the Taunton Dye Works and Bleachery 140 laborers are on strike, and the plant was shut down today for the first time in years. The strikers demand 19 cents an hour; the company offers 16 cents. Police reserves were also sent to the plant last night.

COMMITTEES GET BOARD CHANGES

Governor McCall's sweeping recommendations for the abolition and consolidation of State boards and commissions were submitted to sub-committees of the legislative committee on Consolidation for investigation today. The following matters were referred: Consolidation of the Port Board and Harbor and Lands Commission, consolidation of Prison Commission and Parole Boards, and abolition of paid Insanity Commission.

ITALIAN VETERAN, 73, BACK FROM WAR

Antonio Paguaso, seventy-three, a veteran of the Garibaldi wars, arrived in Boston today on the Canopic steerage and vigorous though suffering from a wound received June 22 in the trenches. Paguaso, who is a corporal, wore medals received for bravery in 1866, 1870 and 1872. His home is in Hoboken.

PITTSBURGH FIRE NEAR MUNITIONS

Pittsburgh, Feb. 24.—Fire today in the Union Storage Company warehouse spread rapidly. Munitions factories and many household goods adjoin the warehouses. Fifteen tanks of oxygen exploded and two buildings were destroyed. They were valued at $5,000. The goods they contained were worth $100,000.

Leap Year Dance.

The E-B-M Girls, a club of East Boston young women, will have a leap year feature in connection with their dancing party tomorrow night in New Armory Hall, East Boston. The young women will ask the young men to dance.

SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

MRS. HARDWICK AN ATHLETE

MISS ELY HAS DEBUTANTE DANCE TONIGHT.

MRS. HUNTINGTON HARDWICK.

Mrs. Huntington Hardwick, formerly Miss Margaret Stone, daughter of Galen L. Stone of Hayden, Stone & Company, whose wedding to "Tack" Hardwick, the noted Harvard athlete, was a society event of last season, has become an ardent devotee of out-of-door sports this Winter and is the cause of much friendly rivalry among the younger Boston fashionable set.

Miss Stone besides being a clever equestrienne and an expert automobilist excels in both skiing and snow shoeing. Mrs. Hardwick is a Bryn Mawr graduate and took a leading part in college athletics as did her husband while at Harvard. Now the young couple are enjoying outdoor sports together and it is expected that Mrs. Hardwick will be a participant in the fashionable contests on both the links and the tennis court this Summer.

o o o

Miss Barbara Tilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barclay Tilton of No. 58 Suffolk road, Brookline, will be guest of honor at a dinner given tonight by her mother at the Tilton residence.

Miss Tilton, who came out this season, belongs to the Sewing Circle and has assisted at a number of the season's debutante events. She took part in anti-suffrage work last year. She has proven one of the most popular of the debutantes.

o o o

Miss Corinne Ely's dance tonight is one of the very last debutante functions before Lent, and though small and informal, is keenly anticipated by the buds remaining in town for the close of the season. ACID IN STOMACH SOURS THE FOOD

Says Excess of Hydrochloric Acid is Cause of Indigestion.

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion is nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach causes indigestion and starts food fermentation; then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acid gulls and gases, which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas, or have heartburn, flatulence, waterbrash, or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast while it is effervescing, and, furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys, and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.—Advertisement.

ASKS STATE TO FIX FARES AT NICKEL

Edwin F. Dwelley of Lynn today urged the Street Railways Committee of the Legislature to place before the voters of this State the question, "Shall the amount charged for a single cash fare upon the street railways of this Commonwealth be fixed at five cents?"

He expressed it as his opinion that the vote would be for the five-cent fare.

"The purpose of this bill," as Mr. Dwelley explained it, "is not to deprive the street railways of any income to which they are entitled, but it is to establish a definite fare of five cents throughout this state.

"The Bay State case has shown beyond dispute that the people do not want to give an extra penny with every ticket. Let the people understand that under no circumstances will more than a five-cent fare be charged, and let the Public Service Commission still have power to shorten the fare zones, but not to raise the fare above a nickel."

Bentley W. Warren, counsel for the street railways, opposed both the Dwelley bill and the petition of the selectmen of Wellesley to deprive the Public Service Commission of the power to authorize fare increases in those cases where the street railways and the cities and towns previously agreed that the fares would not exceed a stated amount.

CITY FIGHTS FOR SOUTH BOSTON TAX

John N. Johnson's bill to exempt leasehold estate on the Commonwealth's flats in South Boston from taxation was characterized today by Assistant Corporation Counsel James H. Devlin, Jr., as "a scheme to defraud the city of Boston out of taxes." Mr. Johnson failed to appear before the legislative Committee on Taxation in behalf of his bill and Mr. Devlin was the only opponent.

FAILS TO OUST HOBBS AT B.&M. HEARING

Conrad W. Crooker, counsel for minority stockholders of the Boston & Maine, startled the Committee on Railroads at the State House today by publicly requesting Senate Chairman Clarence W. Hobbs to excuse himself from consideration of the bill to provide State aid for funding the unfunded debt of the Boston & Maine.

Senator Hobbs promptly refused to leave the room and the committee ignored Mr. Crooker's request to oust him.

When the hearing began, Mr. Crooker read statements from the stenographic report of the previous hearing which, he said, showed "beyond all doubt that Senator Hobbs has prejudged this case."

"The executive committee of the Boston & Maine Minority Stockholders Association," he said, "has voted to request the chairman of the committee on railroads to excuse himself from consideration of this bill."

Representative Victor F. Jewett, House chairman of the committee remarked that the request was "most unusual."

Representative Francis M. Hill, a committee member, raised the point of order that the request was not in proper one.

"I do not intend to get off this committee at any one's suggestion," declared Senator Hobbs. "I will remind the petitioners that I am here by the authority of the General Court, and I intend to stay."

Mr. Crooker asked for a ruling on his motion, which was promptly refused.

He asked for action by the committee on the chairman's refusal to rule and this, too, was denied him.

"You had better proceed with your case," Representative Jewett said, whereupon Crooker said he would do so, with the understanding that it was under protest."

In his argument for the bill, he said that State aid may eventually be necessary for rehabilitate the finances of the Boston & Maine. He said the state could intervene against any excessive assessment on the minority stockholders.

Call Ambulance for an Alleged Woman Bigamist

Mrs. Helen J. Drane, whom the Somerville police charge with bigamy, and who is seriously ill with tuberculosis, collapsed while waiting to be arraigned in the Somerville court today. After being revived by the matron, she was arraigned and held in $400, furnished by the man the police say is her thing husband, for a hearing April 18.

She was so ill after her arraignment that she was carried from the courtroom on a stretcher and taken to her home in the police ambulance.

The police say the woman, who was Helen Josephine Allen of Cambridge, married William Fitzgerald of Watertown in 1905 and had two children.

February 15, 1916, the police say, William F. Drane, fifty-eight, a car-penter, left the camp for tuberculous patients where they were both undergoing treatment, and were married in Cambridge.

COLUMBUS AVENUE LADY NOW HAPPY

Mrs. Charles E. Davis Has Regained Her Health Through Taking Plant Juice.

Nature, like an army when attacked, has warnings and signals that should never be unheeded. When the stomach, liver or kidneys suffer slight derangement, they send out their sorry call to be careful. Nine out of ten people ignore these first symptoms and wait until serious illness has laid them low before they seek relief.

Plant Juice, the new herbal stomach remedy, assists nature, and will bring relief in practically all cases of deranged stomach, liver or kidneys. Thousands of local people are testifying to the benefit they have received after they had practically given up all hope of permanent relief.

One of the latest signed testimonials is that of Mrs. Charles E. Davis, a lady well-known socially in this city, who resides at No. 208 Columbus Avenue. She states:

"I have suffered from intestinal indigestion and dyspepsia for over five years, and was treated in New York City, but did not get any relief. My food would ferment in my stomach and cause gas to form, and I suffered agony. I could hardly keep anything down in my stomach, as it would cause me such pain. My liver was sluggish and torpid, while inside my complexion very pimpled and yellow. I could not get any sweet sleep and was in such a state that I would go into nervous spasms; and for days on end I could hardly get my breath. The palpitation of the heart, and my stomach was so bad that I had to have it washed out every morning. I got no benefit from anything until I heard of Plant Juice and started to take it. I certainly was amazed at what it did for me, as now, after taking several bottles, I have no trace of any of the former symptoms, can eat anything and digest it, my nerves are in fine condition, I sleep well, and glad to state that Plant Juice has cured me, and I am now a well woman after years of misery."

The Plant Juice Man is at the Liggett Drug Company's store, corner of Washington and Avon Streets, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

CHARGE PETTY GRAFT BY ASH COLLECTORS

Charges of petty graft, in connection with the unsatisfactory removal of ashes in the Dorchester-Roxbury district, were made at the Mayor's office, City Hall, today.

Edward J. Slattery, secretary to the Mayor, said:

"We have had many complaints of petty graft in connection with the removal of ashes by contract in the Dorchester and Roxbury districts. Citizens complain that the contractors employ foreigners, who claim they cannot understand English, and refuse to remove the ashes. Upon the payment of a tip, ranging from 5 to 50 cents, however, it is said that men will remove the ashes and even go to the length of entering cellars and shoveling out ashes, which they are not required to do.

"Conditions regarding the contract held by the Gore company are very unsatisfactory and the Mayor's office has been notified the commissioner of public works."

COMPLAINTS PILE UP.

Meanwhile complaints continue to pour into City Hall from householders who claim their ashes have not been removed from one to three weeks. As a result of the exposure of conditions by the Boston AMERICAN, the city today hired eleven teams and put them to work removing the piled up refuse. Five were hired from the John J. Bradley Company, which did the work last year, and six were hired from John J. Lyons' Sons. Under the terms of the contract, the Gore company will have to pay for them.

Roosevelt's Taxes Doubled on His Oyster Bay Home

By International News Service.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Feb. 24.

THE high cost of living here will be brought home to Colonel Roosevelt when he pays his taxes this year. Last year he paid $750 on his Sagamore Hill property. This year he is taxed for $1,500.

The increase of 100 per cent is caused by the raising of the town's assessment from $18,000,000 to $31,000,000 and by certain additional taxes.

LUFKIN HANDLES ROOSEVELT'S FIGHT HERE

W. W. Lufkin of Kansas, private secretary to Congressman Gardner, arrived from Washington today to take charge of the Roosevelt-for-President campaign in this State.

Mr. Lufkin at once went into conference with Grafton D. Cushing to arrange the details for a vigorous campaign. His headquarters for the present will be in Charles Sumner Bird's offices on State street.

Shortly after his arrival Mr. Lufkin stated that the men in public life at Washington regarded Massachusetts as the pivotal State in the presidential campaign.

Mr. Lufkin said that at first a newspaper campaign would be waged to educate the voters in the belief that it is better to vote for their President through a pledged delegation than to give their powers to an unpledged group.

"We will also point out the grave mistakes of President Wilson," he said, "and will call attention to the fact that in this critical period of international affairs the United States needs a strong man at the helm. We are for Roosevelt because we know where he stands."

HANDFUL TO DECIDE.

"Yes," said Mr. Cushing, who was present, "a handful of reactionaries will decide the fate of the Republican party if the States send unpledged delegations to Chicago."

Mr. Lufkin will return to Washington on Saturday, but he will be back in this State again next week to remain until the campaign is over.

Mr. Cushing today sent a letter to the members of the Legislature asking them to defeat the George presidential primary bill now in the House. The letter is as follows:

"I wish to call to your attention the result of the passage of Senate Bill No. 205, an act to change the method of voting in presidential primaries, the so-called George Bill. Under it you will deprive your constituents of the right they now enjoy to express their preference for their candidate for the presidency.

"I do not believe that you intend to deprive your constituents of any such right, nor do I for a moment suppose that they will sit passively by and allow themselves to be deprived of this right when they once learn what this bill really accomplishes.

"At the last presidential primary the people made a choice between Taft and Roosevelt. Under the George bill they can express no preference as they can vote only for delegates and every delegate must be unpledged unless the man they favor will personally sign an acceptance.

UNABLE TO SIGN.

"It is perfectly well known that the men named most prominently for the presidency cannot under any circumstances sign an acceptance. The ballot will therefore contain various delegates, all unpledged, and the people will have no means of distinguishing whether delegates are for or against the person they favor.

"This bill is really an insidious attempt to prevent any expression of opinion by the people; it is a flagrant attempt to take away from the people the right they exercised at the last presidential primary when they made their choice between Taft and Roosevelt, and it gives enormous advantage to Old Guard delegates who are well known politically and who refuse to declare whom they are for."

WARNS CAN TRUST IT MUST BEHAVE

By International News Service.

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 24.—In an opinion in the United States District Court, Judge Rose held that he would not order the dissolution of the American Can Company but would retain the bill filed against it by the government. He held that if the corporation should at any time hereafter do anything which would justify or require action of the court, there seemed to be no reason why the government should not then get relief.

The decision is an original one in so-called anti-trust cases.

What has been proved, Judges Rose said, is, first, that the defendant was organized to monopolize interstate trade in cans and to attain that object such trade was unlawfully restrained by it and by those who formed it and directed its early activities and some of those individuals still participate in its management and control. Second, for some time before the filing of the petition in this cause, it had done nothing of which any competitor or any consumer of cans complains, or anything which strikes a disinterested outsider as unfair or unethical.

The court holds that "while it had its origin in unlawful acts and thereby acquired a power which may be harmful, and the acquisition of which in any event was contrary to the policy of Congress as embodied in the statute, it for some time past has used that power on the whole rather for weal than woe.

"In this industry," the court holds, "it is absolutely impossible to put things back where they were on the first of March, 1901, and if it were possible probably highly undesirable.

"The record shows that there are many ways in which a large and strong consumer can serve the trade and a small one cannot. Perhaps it did not require much testimony to show that one who is rich and strong has more ability to serve than he who is poor and weak, provided always that there is an equal will to do so.

"I am frankly reluctant to destroy so finely-adjusted and industrial a machine as the record shows the defendant to be.

"And yet the government has its rights and has thus far been properly insistent upon them."

BUMPUS SPEAKS ON NEEDS OF TUFTS

The need of endowment for Tufts College was emphasized by President Bumpus at the dinner of class of 1915 Tufts Medical School, in the Thorndike Hotel. At the same time he urged that the alumni extend aid to those worthy students who struggle through college under financial difficulties.

SHIPPERS FAIL TO AGREE ON SOUND LINERS

Letters from leading Boston shippers, denouncing the control of Long Island Sound lines by the New Haven, have been received by A. H. Elder, representing the Interstate Commerce Commission, according to his statement at the hearing continued in the Chamber of Commerce building today.

"I have in my possession thirty letters from some of the largest shippers in Boston," said Attorney Elder, denouncing the New Haven and its control of the Sound lines. I do not doubt that I could go out and in a very short time secure 100 more."

The second day of the hearing on the petition of the New Haven for permission to retain its steamboat lines opened with a long wrangle over the question whether the shippers would have to put on 100 witnesses or merely file the petitions sworn to.

At length Charles S. Davis of the Plymouth Commercial Club said:

"We are wasting a lot of time over nothing. It is like discussing constitutional matters in a police court. Why don't you get to work?"

The matter was dropped for the time being and the first witness called. He was Richard L. Gay, secretary of the Massachusetts State Board of Trade, who said he represented fifty-two bodies, all of which favor the retention of its boat lines by the New Haven.

Mr. Gay was followed by George L. Graham, representing the National Association of Woolen Manufacturers of New England and the American Woolen Company. He said that the National Association represented the majority of the woolen and worsted manufacturers of the United States, and the American Woolen Company had 34,000 employes, all of whom were opposed to cutting off the Sound lines from the New Haven.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair, and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—It's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.—Advertisement

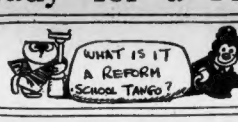
BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS



PLAYERS BATTLE ON ICE

Fahey, Aberdeen Wingman, Starts Rumpus at Arena—Incidentally, Canadians Lose, 3-0.

By JOHN W. MORAN, JR.

BOSTON fans will hardly envy those over Canadian hockey if the teams that come visiting from the Dominion insist on putting up the sort of game played by the Aberdeens after they had been cleanly beaten by the Arena Hockey Club seven last night. The score was 3-0.

Fahey, a wing man for the Canadians, deliberately slugged "Pop" Conley, the cleanest hockey player on the local team.

Immediately thereafter the fans were treated to something they had not seen before since the inception of the great indoor Winter game—a fight between two players. Conley, an unusually quiet and modest young player, didn't stand idle for a minute when the Canadian started roughing him. He entered into the spirit of the occasion with a zest and didn't get any the worst of it.

The game was the fastest played on local ice this season. Coming here with the big reputation the Aberdeens were looked upon as sure winners. Most surprising of all to a great many of the Arena supporters the local team completely stole the Canadian show on its head. They skated faster and handled the sticks and pucks with more accuracy. In fact, generally surprised the visitors in every department of play.

TREBO KEEPS SCORE DOWN.

Aside from the fitness and were is not for the almost superhuman work of Trebo, the Aberdeen goal tend, goodness only knows what the exact score would have been. Trebo, a diminutive chap, demonstrated he is one of the best net men playing the game today. He stopped all sorts of visions shots and fielded all with off with ease and abandon.

In keeping with the general custom of happenings on nights when the Arena team plays, it was Irving Small who distinguished himself. The veteran defence man was easily one of the most brilliant players in the game. He outshone the mighty Nagle, who proved no spectacular a year ago, a very poor defender.

Small scored one of Arena's three tallies when then netted cleverly to "Red" Synott, who scored again for the local seven. The opening count resulted from one of the cleverest pieces of hockey local fans have seen in years. Conley took the puck from the extreme right hand corner of the rink and dodged his way down through the Aberdeen forward and defence lines to the left hand side. Then, after deftly selecting a spot from which to shoot, he sent the rubber hurtling just high enough to get below the top of the net and over the goal tender. It was a dandy shot, executed in a most delightful manner and sufficient to put the game on ice. The Arena men thereafter played airtight hockey and not once did the visitors seem at all threatening.

The Aberdeens introduced a defence that was the hardest Bostonians have seen this season. They checked and tripped in the hardest boarish fashion; smashed into the Arena man recklessly and used their sticks in an exceedingly careless manner. They introduced rough hockey into the game and no return received some which was equally as "good."

LOTS OF BANISHMENTS.

Though Irving Small possessed the reputation of being a rough player, last night was the first time in three years a referee has been called upon to order him from the ice. Small unchased twice, Nagle twice, Synott twice, Roach, Conley, Fahey and Burn once each. McGurn was apparently in the game to play rough hockey, for his slashing of Synott was entirely uncalled for.

Owing to the indisposition of Herman Small, Coach Hogue was compelled to put Norman Mackay into the game. The big fellow from Dalhousie played fine hockey, having to his credit a number of stops that were equally as thrilling as those credited to Trebo. Jack Layton, who played alongside of Small, on defence, continued his brilliant work of the last game.

THE "RABBITS" COLUMN

By Walter J. Maranville, Mgr. Stop of the Braves

Manager Donovan got an early start with his men. It must have seemed familiar to "Buddy" Block to see the boys go up in the elevator to the ninth floor for their "skull practice." Many clubs have patterned after Manager Stallings in his talk with the men.

Benny Kauff must have run out of ideas. I haven't seen his name mentioned for some days; so, here goes Benny—every boost is a knock. I am waiting for that second Ty Cobb stuff.

* * *

How about that wrist watch, George? Didn't see it on your wrist the last time we met.

* * *

Jimmy Neary, the Braves' trainer, is getting busy with his equipment for the trip down South. Jimmy is a very capable worker and exceedingly popular with the players.

* * *

Everything is now clear sailing for the Eastern League. James O'Rourke evidently has been shown how futile it would have been to try to fight.

* * *

The new league appears to be in the hands of men who intend to profit by past mistakes, and who will try in every way to make the body a money-making concern. The salary limit of $10,000 for that classification is reasonable.

* * *

President B. B. Johnson, who should be a shrewd judge of conditions in his own league, points to a rough road ahead for the Red Sox. This doesn't mean that he figures the World's Champions as any weaker; in fact, with Agnew, they are stronger, but he points to the clubs I have picked to give them trouble—the Tigers and White Sox.

* * *

Much local interest centres in the appearance at the Braves' training camp of Captain Barney Lee of Tufts College. Coach Slattery is an excellent judge of ball players. Has placed his stamp of approval upon this youngster.

* * *

"Koney" picked the Braves and Red Sox for the coming World's Series. Now Joe Jackson for the Cubs and the White Sox will play for that honor. In former years baseball, as well as horse racing, interesting.

* * *

I know that President Lannin has declared that Joe Wood will pitch for Boston, if he is able to, but he has a option terms in his contract, and that Speaker will sign up and play for the interests of the club. Should Wood and Speaker, the owner of the World Beaters elect, they will have anything to worry him these Winter days.

GENE PACKARD SOUGHT.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—The defunct Federal League will not be allowed to remaining unsold after Saturday's final meeting. Southpaw Gene Packard, who has big demand, promises to bring top price.

ZBYSZKO IS VICTOR OF GO

Hussane So Badly Hurt Losing First Fall Unable to Continue. Heavy Betting on Match.

WLADEK ZBYSZKO, the famous Polish wrestler, not only defeated Yousouf Hussane, the Bulgarian, in their "finish" match at Mechanics Hall last night, but he temporarily put Jack Curley's charge out of commission.

Gaining a fall in 1 hour, 9 minutes and 27 seconds of spicy but grappling, Zbyszko, in throwing Hussane, downed him so viciously that Yousouf was rendered senseless.

After his handlers worked over him, having a Ned of a time in bringing him around, he was carried to his dressing room. Curley humanely declared the one fall was enough, hence Promoter Tuohey dismissed "the mob" that attended.

Two foreign monstrosities had a particularly stiff tussle. Christmas night they grappled over two hours without either gaining a fall. So last night Tuohey arranged his preliminary events (straight) in order to allow Zbyszko and Hussane to come on the mat shortly before 9 o'clock.

The bout was a thriller as long as it lasted. Zbyszko, heavier by fully twenty pounds, was never better than he was last night. Hussane also seemed to be at his best.

Yousouf appeared perfectly satisfied to allow Wladek to make the pace, as a waiting game is the Bulgarian's pet specialty. He figured the Pole would tire before him and, regardless of having the first fall go against him, would be fresher of the two for the second and third bouts.

HUSSANE BADLY STUNNED.

Hussane might have reckoned properly, but when he was thrown his head got such an awful jar that he went out; was dead to the world for the greater part of ten minutes.

Zbyszko made a mad rush for Hussane in registering his fall, lifted Yousouf high into the air and flung him to the mat with a thud. Hussane landed on his head and was rendered unconscious. That was all there was to the match.

In the lone preliminary event Peter Goulette disposed of Joe Willis, after a keen little encounter, in 20 minutes, and 45 seconds.

Princeton, N. J., Feb. 24.—Princeton's basketball five defeated Penn, 28-20.

B. C. Batteries Start Work in the Gym

Around two dozen candidates answered the first call for battery men at Boston College yesterday afternoon. In the absence of Coach "Bill" Dowd, Manager Dee was in charge and outlined the work expected of the men. Indoor work will begin this afternoon under the direction of Coach Sweeney and will be continued every day in the gym until outside work is permitted.

Leo Halloran, the star pitcher the last two years, will again be available, as will Steve Fitzgerald, Jack Coughlin and Ed Cleary of last year's nine. Among the promising new men are Bob Hall, the former H. S. and all-interscholastic pitcher; Joe Curry of Wellesley High; Connell Cotter, Jack McCarthy and McCurry.

"Buck" Donnelley, substitute catcher the past two years Charlie Gaffney of B. C. High, John Hoban, Henry Mueller and Ed Cleary are the new batterymen. Lack of a regular baseball cage will prevent Sweeney from holding any early batting practice.

NEW YORK BOXING

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Benny Leonard, the latest flash sensation, will probably make his debut as a Madison Square Garden fighter the early part of next month. Matchmaker Johnston is arranging a match between Leonard and Johnny Dundee. As soon as Dundee's manager is heard from the deal will be completed.

FREDDIE WELSH, the lightweight champion, has signed to fight Phil Bloom next Tuesday night at the Broadway Sporting Club. This will be Frederick's first appearance around here in many months.

JIMMY BRITT, the former Adonis of the ring, who joined the Australians to fight for Dash Of England, has turned up in London. Jimmy is not wearing khaki, nor did he enter the trenches. Instead he is uplifting the drama and is helping to teach the injured soldiers boxing.

"SILENT" MARTIN will get a workout for his bout with Leo Bens Saturday night when he takes on Paul Dixon in the star bout at the Military A. C. tonight.

BENNY LEONARD has been signed for another battle. He will face "Rocky" Kansas in a ten-round session at Buffalo, Monday night.

No wonder Mike Gibbons likes to box at the Capital City A. C. of St. Paul, Minn., Sir Michael, according to a well-founded rumor, has an interest in the organization, and, by appearing there as a principal, cashes two ways.

STANLEY BURNHAM HERO OF MAT SHOW

Stanley Burnham of Gloucester threw Sache, the Tech varsity heavyweight wrestler, and the triumph gave the Harvard freshman a 15 to 12 victory over Tech 1918 in their dual meet on the mat. When the final bout, between the inexperienced, but strong and willing, Burnham and Sache, started, the Harvard "tadpoles" were two points to the bad. Burnham, after he had won a cross-buttock hold with barely fifteen seconds of time remaining. The summary:

133-pound class—Smith (T), drew with Killam (H), draw.
145-pound class—McMorran (T), beat Dolan (H), fall, 1 minute.

Jerome Travers Not to Defend Open Title

By H. B. MARTIN.

New York, Feb. 24.—Jerome D. Travers will not defend the title of open golf champion of the United States this year. He announced today that he would not go to Minneapolis to compete in the open tournament on account of business reasons.

It was only at the last moment that Travers decided to try for the title at Baltusrol last year.

Travers has won the amateur championship four times and was second on as many times in winning the Metropolitan championship. If he had been able to negotiate the amateur title at Detroit last year his record as open and amateur champion would have been the next ever made by an amateur in this country.

"Do not make the mistake that I am retiring from golf competitions altogether," said Travers. "It is only because my business keeps me away from the tournament, where so much time is required in traveling, that I have decided not to compete. I expect to play for the amateur championship at Philadelphia because the Quaker city is close at hand and I feel that I should play in this event if in any at all."

PLAYERS FIGHT ON ICE AT NEW HAVEN

New Haven, Ct., Feb. 24.—Yale's hockey seven won the deciding game of its series with Princeton, 6-2. The game was exceedingly rough and six players were banished from the ice. Captain Peacock of the Tigers and Washburn, the Elis' point, "mixed" in the second half and were pried apart by the officials, who put both players out of the game. Herwith the summaries for the contests:

HARVARD RELAY ON EDGE FOR UNICORN

Harvard's relay four, which will run the B. A. A. short-distance team at the B. A. A.'s annual indoor interscholastic track meet Saturday, will be composed of Eddie Towdner, Tom Pennypacker, Raymond Wilcox and Captain Bingham. This quartet beat Cornell earlier in the month and ran such a gallant race against Pennsylvania Monday at Hartford. It would probably have retained the Red and Blue if Towdner, unused to running without spikes, had not slipped. Towdner is down to set the pace for the first 390 yards Saturday, with Pennypacker relieving him. Wilcox will pound the boards as the third Crimson trotter, with Bingham slated for anchor to run the mighty dash to the worsted opposed probably to the great Dave Caldwell.

Harvard Personals

TWO of the semi-final bouts in the Harvard boxing tournament were settled yesterday, when Russell Cobb defeated Artie Aldis in the 145-pound class and "Shorty" Howe disposed of Simon Kirschen in the 125-pound division.

AL DELMONT, the professional featherweight, has been secured to put the "gym" boys in condition to meet Henry Allen's pupils. The latter has the most promising boy in the tournament, including Kirkpatrick, the heavyweight; Whitney and "Bill" Cummings.

COLONEL SAM WINSLOW of Springfield, the skate merchant, has added his mite of praise for Harvard's adoption of boxing. In a letter to Manager Robinson he says: "I have always been interested in uplifting the sport; so much so I have introduced it at home and insisted upon my son mastering it."

AMHERST WELL BEATEN.

Amherst, Feb. 24.—The Springfield Y. M. C. A. five gave Amherst its worst defeat of the season, 53-19.

Murphy and Mohr in Windup at B.M.A.A.

Eddie Murphy of South Boston, one of the former topliners of the lightweight class, is reported to be training faithfully for his twelve-round bout with Walter Mohr, the bouncing Brooklyn boy, at the B. M. A. A. show, Hibernian Hall, Roxbury, tomorrow night. Up to eighteen months or so ago Murphy was meeting the best of the country's 135-pounders and winning his share of his bouts.

Murphy and Mohr had two peppery hot battles at the University A. C. in Cambridge, two Winters ago, and both are anxious to hook on to the decision in their rubber engagement. Mohr proved in his recent battle with Terry Brooks that he is at his best right now, so it behooves Murphy to come in cherry ripe.

Those two husky colored middleweights, George Robinson of Cambridge, and Lee Anderson of Berlin, N. H., will hook up in the semi-wind-up.

Mexican Muddle Needs Strong and Friendly Move, Such as Permanent Committee Could Foster, Says Forbes—U. S. Interests at Stake Demand Action

PRICES DECLINE IN THE STOCK MARKET

By W. H. ROSS.
FINANCIAL EDITOR.

Stocks were weak at noon in Boston and New York. In New York prices were at the lowest for the day to that hour. Among largest declines in that market were American Zinc 3¼, Butte and Superior 2⅝, Studebaker certificates 2⅜, American Locomotive 2¾, Baldwin 2⅝, Crucible steel 2¾, Studebaker 2¾, Steel Co. 2⅛, U. S. Steel 1⅝, Utah Copper 1⅝, Chino 1⅛, Anaconda 1⅛, American Smelting 1, American Can 1⅛, Maxwell 1¼, Mexican Petroleum 1⅛, New York Air Brake 1⅛, Locomotive Steel 1¼, Tennessee Copper 1, St. Paul 1¼, New York Central ⅞, and New Haven ⅝.

Among lesser declines were Atchison ¾, Baltimore & Ohio ¾, Northern Pacific ⅝, Union Pacific ½ and Westinghouse ½.

MARKET BEGAN WEAK.

At the opening in New York prices ranged lower, although a few issues showed gains. Anaconda was up a fraction and American Can was comparatively strong, while the Lackawanna steel showed a point advance. The earliest price range on the new day's trading was of small volume. But when another professional movement developed at 11 o'clock the day's business became brisk. The market was more active during the forenoon than yesterday. Among issues to weaken the most during the first hour were U. S. Steel, Baldwin, American Can, American Loco., Studebaker, Chino, Tennessee, Utah, American Smelting and New Haven, while those New Haven had recovered part of its decline. There was a rally in the second hour at 11 when it was met by a new action which sent prices to their lowest.

TRADERS WERE BEARISH.

Trading sentiment was bearish from the beginning, but there was hesitation about selling stocks for awhile. It is said that they are now strongly held now than for weeks or months, and recent market operations have shown that it is not easy to force liquidation. Hesitancy was due to uncertainty about the international situation. Reports from Washington as to the attitude of President Wilson as to sentiment in Congress concerning relations with Mexico have caused great uneasiness. Increased selling pressure can be attributed to this.

BOSTON LIKE NEW YORK.

The Boston market opened quiet with prices ranging slightly lower. The local market followed the New York lead. Zinc were especially weak at the start and later. Early trading in coppers was comparatively light.

Declines here in the issues included Alaska Gold 2, Ahmeek 1, Alloues 1½, Copper Range 1, Davis-Daly 1, Dominion 1¼, Mohawk 1, Wolverine 1½, American Zinc 3⅛, Butte & Superior 2⅛, Atlantic 1, Calumet & Hecla 1½, U. S. Smelting 1⅞ and United Fruit 1.

SHOE COSTS HAVE GROWN.

It costs much more to make boots and shoes than ever, and if the shoe industry was not so well organized the people of the public would suffer this very quickly. That there has not been more of an advance in the price of footwear is evidence that shoe manufacturers have been content with a very small margin of profit.

The idea that the trade as a whole has profited by the war is a mistake. It has hurt most manufacturers comparatively few have war contracts. Increased cost of production has not been offset by higher prices for the finished product. Any improvement in the industry within a few months is due to a greater domestic demand for footwear rather than to anything else.

Some statements depreciating the quality of army boots and shoes made by American concerns for European armies are disgracefully continued ordering by such buyers. There is increasing civilian demand from Europe, too. This latter business is better than war orders. It ought to enlarge permanently the foreign trade and shoe trade of this country. War business is ephemeral and kills off consumers. A dead man is never a customer.

England and France to Seek $250,000,000 Loans in the United States

By BOERSIANER.

Great Britain and France will offer in America a loan of $250,000,000 each, both loans to be secured by American securities.

Despite the highly interesting—and to the money and security markets important—report being discussed among certain bankers, While not yet official the information is expected to be confirmed in a day or two. It came from London and was accepted as authentic by the bankers to whom it was addressed. It is also likely to be liberal subscribers to the large transaction.

Marketable and easy collateral, the second application for a heavy sum from abroad to the American money market, the absolute necessity of England securing the proposition from a purely business aspect. Technically, the New York Air Brake case is the best. In 1¼ Tennessee Copper 1, St. Paul 1¼, New York Central ⅞, and New Haven ⅝.

Among lesser declines were Atchison ¾, Baltimore & Ohio ¾, Northern Pacific ⅝, Union Pacific ½ and Westinghouse ½.

BANISHED HIS DESIRE FOR TOBACCO

A Kansas Man Tells of a Simple Home Recipe That Broke Him of Using Tobacco.

Mr. John Miller, living at Waverly, Kas., after using tobacco 20 years, banished his desire for tobacco with a simple recipe which he mixed at home. In a recent statement Mr. Miller said: "I used to stop tobacco of my own accord, so used the following simple recipe almost two years ago and have not touched tobacco since. To 5 oz. of water add 20 grains of muriate of ammonia, a small box of Varlex Compound, and 10 grains of pepsin. Take a teaspoonful three times a day. As it has no color or smell it can be given secretly in tea, coffee, milk or in food. Any druggist can fill this recipe at very little cost, and it certainly will banish all desire for tobacco."

U. S. INTERESTS IN MEXICO CRY FOR ACTION

By B. C. FORBES.

One of America's greatest commercial fields is Mexico.

It has abounding resources, tapped and untapped, above ground and under ground.

It lies nearest to our border.

Already a very large amount of American capital has been invested there.

American men of affairs have played a prominent part in the building of Mexico's resources.

And no matter what may happen, come peace or war with Mexico, American enterprises and activity are bound to figure importantly in that now unhappy land.

American business men, looking ahead, are anxious to prepare for developments.

When the Pan-American financial conference was held at Washington last May, the secretary of the Treasury arranged to appoint what were called Permanent Group Committees to act for the different Latin countries.

Mexico was then ignored, as the new régime had not been set up. It is then recognized any government in that war-torn republic.

Now Mexico has now been set afoot to have the government appoint a strong Permanent Group Committee for Mexico.

The importance and advisability of such a committee is stated that the idea is being favorably entertained.

* * *

These Permanent Committees, though manned by the secretary of the Treasury, do not represent the American government in any way.

They are composed usually of financial and business leaders more or less directly interested in the country for which they are named, and acquainted with its conditions, and needs.

Were any Latin-American republic desires to lay any project before United States interests, and does not know exactly how or where to go about it, communications are sent to the members of the permanent committee here, and the committee's duty is to give every possible assistance.

The character, standing and influence of the members are such that they can be depended upon to use their powers with effect to bring about the proper machinery in motion to deal with the southern republic.

Business men subscribed to both committees thus can be established.

Now, there is no such committee to act for Mexico, and the necessity is although the possibilities in Mexico are regarded as far greater than those in any other Latin country.

Several Mexican representatives have been sounding American financial interests as to the feasibility of extending aid to that country.

Many of the suggestions these appeals have not been entertained.

Things simply are being allowed to drift from bad to worse, neither Washington nor business leaders here having so far bestirred themselves effectively.

It is not because American and other foreign investors have little at stake in Mexico.

* * *

The truth is that Mexico's 16,000 miles of railway are almost entirely owned by foreign interests, her allied industry is almost entirely financed and operated by foreign capitalists, her mining and smelting enterprises have been largely established by foreign money and brains.

We Need to Prepare Human Bodies as Well as Guns and Battleships

Statesmen and Others Interested in Preparedness Will Be Interested in These Figures

Copyright, 1916, by the War Century

IT is important to be ready for trouble if it is to come. If we were at war we should need good and fast ships; big, reliable submarines—able to come UP after they go DOWN—which is not always the case with the United States submarines. We should need guns, flying machines, torpedo boats of the finest kind. But above all we should need MEN.

Those who have taken on their shoulders the burden of national defence ought to be interested in the quality of men who offer themselves as NATIONAL DEFENDERS.

We have a letter from Captain L. P. Pinkston, retired captain of the United States Marine Corps, in charge of the recruiting bureau in New York city.

"Dear Sir—Do you know that during the present year to date there have been 11,012 applicants for enlistment in the United States Marine Corps at our recruiting station, located at No. 24 East Twenty-third street, this city, and that out of that number only 316 were able to pass the required examination? Just think of it. Twenty-nine men out of every one thousand—one in every thirty-five who applied—physically fit to be a marine!

"Figures from other large cities of the United States do not show such a large percentage of physically 'unfits,' but they are interesting, and you may have them for the asking."

Will the statesmen please consider the meaning of those figures? Men apply as recruits for the United States Marine Corps, and out of a hundred ninety-seven ARE PHYSICALLY UNFIT.

Remember that it is not necessary for these men to pass intellectual tests. All that they require is a healthy body, sound legs, arms, lungs and heart, to enable them to learn the drill and do the work.

AND NOT THREE OUT OF A HUNDRED ARE FIT FOR THE TASK.

It ought to be somebody's business to investigate the causes of so much physical unfitness and the possibility of eliminating the unfitness.

Needless to say, these men are not fair samples of the men of the United States—the nation would be in a bad way if they were.

But THESE ARE THE MEN THAT APPLY FOR SERVICE IN THE ARMY. And THREE HUNDRED AND SIXTEEN out of more than ELEVEN THOUSAND are strong enough to be accepted for the work.

We believe that the fight which the Hearst newspapers and other agencies are making against whiskey will do something to diminish physical unfitness.

Whiskey and the diseases that travel with whiskey, tuberculosis and others, have much to do with physical unfitness.

The statesmen also should ask themselves, "How is it that men with such a high percentage of unfitness apply for enlistment in the army?" Or, rather, "Why is it that out of eleven thousand that apply as recruits in New York city so few are physically fit?"

The statesmen should ask themselves what they can do to make service in the army and the navy more attractive, how they can make the service more inviting to men of the kind that would give adequate defence.

There is a good deal of waste and a good deal of discouragement when officials must examine eleven thousand men to find three hundred and sixteen physically able to serve in the Marine Corps.

For the benefit of those who have undertaken the responsibility for the army and navy and the defence of the country we publish an interesting table, very kindly supplied at our request by Captain Pinkston, showing the percentage of unfitness in different parts of the country.

What statesmen will take the lead in fighting for preparedness by preparing THE MEN, by fighting the agencies—whiskey, poverty, disease, etc.—that weaken the men?

A Threatened Eruption

"So you're given up smoking?"

"Yep."

"What's the matter? Too expensive? Or had for the nerves?"

"Oh, I quit to stop my wife from complaining. It got so that I couldn't light a cigar without being lectured about it."

"Well, good luck to you. Why are you letting your whiskers grow?"

"My wife thought it was a waste of time and money for me to go to the barber every day. I've never been able to shave myself."

"I'm mighty glad I never married. I suppose a wife comes in handy now and then, but, after all, I prefer liberty to such happiness as matrimony seems to bring to most men."

"Liberty? There's no reason why a man can't have liberty and be married."

"But you don't seem to have much. Your wife regulates all your habits."

"That's all right as far as the little things go. I'm willing to give up the inconsequential things for the sake of peace, but some day she's going to ask me to give up solitaire, and then, by George, I'll show her that she doesn't own me, body and soul!"

Deserving of Honorable Mention

"That man's optimism is truly wonderful."

"Why do you think so?"

"He has a son who is trying to be the most familiar figure in all the cabarets, and a daughter who thinks nature intended her for a career in grand opera, but he keeps on believing that the outlook is bright, and that the world is growing better."

Real Love

If a man can keep on believing his wife to be beautiful after she begins to do her hair up in a knot the size of a pigeon's egg, it may be assumed that his is a case of real love.

In February

By Jane McLean

THERE is a wind that sweeps the city street,
Rife with the perfume caught from April's hair;
That breathes of pink arbutus, fruit and sweet,
Beneath drenched moss, hid in some woodland lair;
And February winds are passing fleet
When Spring walks forth with slim feet white and bare.

And in the city street the sodden snow,
Under an azure sky, has had its fill.
The world turns over in its sleep, and lo'
Youth burning at her heart turns her adrift,
And down the street a woman worn with woe
Clasps in her hand a faded daffodil.

How Germs Fight

By Woods Hutchinson, M. D.

The World's Best Known Writer on Medical Subjects.

PART ONE

NOT the least of our surprises in the recent epidemic of the grip was the discovery, in the sputum of a large majority of the cases examined, of the pneumococcus, or germ of pneumonia, instead of the influenza bacillus as was expected.

But this unexpected finding—for an epidemic of pneumonia, though possible, is a rare and unusual thing and never reaches a thousandth part of the size of a grip wave—was really of great interest and importance.

First and most salutarily, because it reminds us how much we still have to learn about these matters, and, second, because it confirms a growing suspicion in the minds of our bacteriologists.

This is that there is an unholy partnership between disease germs in their designs upon the human body—a sort of New Haven conspiracy against the health of the body, or, at least, a gentleman's agreement.

According to this, one germ may put up a stiff interference, while the other runs around the end with the ball, or, perhaps more aptly, one will smash the windowpane and slip the catch while the other climbs in through the opening and loots the house.

Two such partners in crime, for instance, whose collusion is notorious, are the typhoid germ and the tubercle bacillus; for recent studies have shown that those who have recovered from typhoid fever are, for from two to five years afterward, nearly four times as liable to develop tuberculosis as the rest of the community of their age.

The typhoid germ is the howitzer to batter down the walls of the body defences, the tubercular bacilli the infantry that march in and take the city.

Another very common, but less dangerous, partnership is that between the influenza bacillus or grip germ and the pneumococcus. Either one apparently may make the preliminary attack and then withdraw and leave the field entirely to the other.

So that we never can be certain when we examine the sputum of a case which looks like pneumonia and find it swarming with influenza germs, or that of a typical case of the grip and find nothing but pneumococcus, which of these pesky bugs began the fight in the first place and then disappeared, leaving the field to his partner.

It is just possible that instead of being a case of collusion and conspiracy it is a case of "dog eat dog," and a fight to a finish, with the victor retaining possession of the field. Indeed, we have already one instance of this sort of "Faithful Gelert" antagonism between bugs in that the bitterest foe of the diphtheria bacillus is the ordinary streptococcus of tonsilitis. We actually clear the throat of lingering diphtheria germs by spraying it with liquid cultures of this benevolent coccus bug.

A Romance of Two Continents

How the Isthmus of Panama Served as a Bridge Over Which Marched in Opposite Directions Two Hosts of Strange Creatures

By Garrett P. Serviss

ONE hears occasionally the impatient and contemptuous exclamation: "Oh, that is ancient history!" It will generally be found that the persons who make use of that expression are ignorant of ancient history and have very little knowledge of history of any kind. Yet a knowledge of history is the basis of human progress.

Imagine the civilized world waking up tomorrow morning with every trace of historic knowledge, and all memory of what has occurred in the past, wiped completely out of mind, and placed beyond recovery. The world would fall into confusion. There would be no guidance for statesmen or for scientists.

Every new problem would have to be solved by the long and painful method of trial and error. There would be no stimulus of pride, emulation and confidence springing from the recollection of man's past achievements. A nation without history would be like a man without memory.

Nothing is more certain than that the long reaches into the past which historical and archaeological students have made have had an immense influence in shaping the course of modern civilization. It may not be so obvious that the revelations of geology, which go back of the time when man had been evolved from his anthropoid ancestors, possess a similar value, but it is nevertheless true. The whole career of the planet is summed up in us, and there is nothing in its past which does not, in some way, touch us.

I have just been reading a remarkable paper presented before the American Association for the Advancement of Science by Professor W. B. Scott of Princeton on "The Isthmus of Panama in Its Relation to the Animal Life of North and South America," which illustrates the importance of pre-human history to a proper comprehension of the world we live in.

Most people look upon the Isthmus of Panama simply as an obstacle in the path of commerce and intercoeanic communication which engineering genius has at last partly overcome. But it widens the mind to regard it as an ancient roadway, once far broader than it is now, over which in long past ages poured a double tide of life, one current flowing from the north and the other from the south, each intermingling its strange types with the indigenous species of the opposite continent.

Before that day in the earth's history which geologists call the Miocene period, South America had been separated from its great northern neighbor and had developed extraordinary forms of life peculiar to itself. In the meantime, North America was developing its own kinds of animals under the influence of vast migrations from the Eastern world, which took place across a wide land bridge, supposed to have stretched where Behring Sea now flows.

But at last, perhaps at the close of the geological day called Oligocene, the door was opened between the North and the south by an uprising of the sea bottom, of which the ridge of the Isthmus is a relic, and the two continents became as bottles whose uncorked necks were hermetically joined.

Then the great ground sloths of South America crept into the north. The colossal megatherium, more massive than an elephant, slow of foot and ponderous of limb, pushed his way heavily as far as Georgia and South Carolina, where he left his huge bones. The mighty mylodon dragged himself over the great plains of the West and up along the California coast.

The great claw-footed megalonyx penetrated even as far as Virginia, and Thomas Jefferson saw his bones, though he did not know whence he came, and gave him the name which he still bears in geological books—a proof that we have had at least one statesman whose mind reached above politics. The giant glyptodon, with its immense dome-shaped carapace like a gun turret, came, too, but it did not, apparently, get north of Florida and Texas.

But at the same time the North marched upon the South, crossing the same bridge, upon which the opposed invaders met, whether with conflict or only with wondering eyes we do not know. The Northern hosts, however, were the more numerous and varied. We sent the fierce sabre-toothed tigers until they ranged from Pennsylvania and California all the way down to the pampas of Argentina.

For the porcupines, ant-eaters and armadillos of South America, we sent our beasts of prey, wolves, cats, rats, rabbits, mice, and in exchange for the huge beasts before mentioned we gave early forms of camels, bears, deer, horses (some of whose wild species were bigger than the draught horses of the present) and mastodons.

It was in the Pleistocene day that the interchange attained its fullest development. Then, in both continents, there flourished some of the most extraordinary and gigantic creatures that have ever lived upon this earth. But now there came, at the close of the Pleistocene, "great and mysterious extinctions," as Professor Scott says, "which devastated more than three-fifths of the land surface of the earth." Thereupon the huge beasts perished and their scattered bones are their only monuments.

Cultivate the Whole Man

By Charles F. Thwing

President Western Reserve University

SOMEBODY has written a book or a series of books on these subjects:

Poise: How to Attain It;

Character: How to Strengthen It;

Timidity: How to Overcome It;

Influence: How to Exert It;

Common Sense: How to Exercise It;

Practicality: How to Acquire It;

Opportunities: How to Make the Most of Them;

Perseverance: How to Develop It;

Speech: How to Use It Effectively;

Personality: How to Build It.

Great qualities and elements are these, well worth struggle. But one feels like saying that the methods indicated for securing these results are not most effective.

For man is one. He is not a series of disconnected and unrelated units. He is not a collection of mental and moral pockets. He is a simple personality. Though having many powers, he is one, and not ten.

To build up the body one does not so much or constantly nourish certain organs as the whole constitution. If the whole constitution is well, and is well nourished, the individual organs will be fit and their functions well performed.

The best method, therefore, of securing "poise," of overcoming "timidity," of acquiring "practicality," of developing "perseverance," is not to aim directly and immediately toward these virtues, but the best methods lie simply in strengthening the whole character. The best method lies in a whole-souled, whole-minded, whole-hearted, whole-willed education. Let education train the mind, the whole mind; let it discipline the will, the whole will; let it exercise the conscience, the whole conscience.

One should be content to be a learner, and a very patient one, too. He should not be eager for quick results.

Quick results in intellectual or moral education are of the same kind as the get-rich-quick schemes in finance. They are deceptive, false and disastrous. Learning should be transmitted into power, power into deeds, and deeds into character. Character constitutes destiny. Let one educate his whole being, and the whole being is made strong, able to respond to the peculiar and individual demands which life makes.
